NAVY'S PRIDE BOARDED BY SOUVENIR HUNTERS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police had to be called here to protect a warship.
The cruiser Ontario, $4,500,000 vessel that was once the pride of the Canadian Navy, has been attacked by souvenir hunters to such an extent that the new owners have asked for police action.
The cruiser, reported sold for less than $500,000, is here to be dismantled. One group of determined hunters pried an 80-pound brass nameplate from the bulkhead of the ship.

32 Feared Dead as Fire Destroys Tourist Hotel

VOSSESTRAND, Norway (UPI)—Fire destroyed the packed Stalheim tourist hotel today and was reported to have killed many of the 130 American tourists visiting there.

Police feared the death toll would exceed 32 and that most of the victims would be Americans. They said they had recovered seven bodies and that more than 25 other persons were and feared dead.

There were 147 guests and about 50 Norwegian employees in the 30-year-old four-storey wooden hotel when fire flashed through the building at 3 a.m. and trapped many persons in their rooms.

At least 35 persons were taken to hospitals, many of them between the ages of 50 and 60 who had come to this resort area 50 miles northeast of Bergen to view the country's famous fjords.

Dangerous Search Among Ruins

Police hoped that some of the missing had left the hotel grounds and had merely failed to report their absence. But they could not be sure until they searched the remains of the tourist inn that was built here at the turn of the century.

The search for more victims was extremely difficult and dangerous in the still-smouldering ruins.

The U.S. embassy in Oslo announced it had sent one of its representatives, Karl Akerman, to the scene by plane to represent the interests of American victims and offer whatever help he can to American survivors.

Vossestrand is one of Norway's most renowned tourist resorts. It is about 50 miles northeast of Bergen and 20 miles north of Voss.

Rioting Mental Patients Besieged

(From Dispatches)
SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—Rioting prisoners at the federal prison system's medical centre released five hostages this afternoon, and guards immediately laid siege to a wing of the big prison hospital.

The 106 patients—persons sentenced to federal institutions but needing medical attention—overpowered the guards with home-made knives five minutes before lights out last night.

Rebelling convicts made two calls for food today but were turned down both times by the warden.

In the second call, one of the hostage guards, William Fitch, was placed on the phone and allowed to tell the authorities that the five guards had not been harmed.

There were three rings of roadblocks on each of the four roads into the grounds.

On the inside, guards armed with riot and tear gas guns

Russ Seamen Desert Ship

OTTAWA (UPI)—An immigration department official said today two Russian seamen were being held in St. John's, Nfld., and that a board of inquiry will probably study their case within 24 hours. The men, who deserted the Russian trawler Nemen Sunday morning, were identified as Vibris Berthold and Adolf Plois. They were being held in custody in St. John's.

22 CBC Officials Quit Over Political Pressure

LOGGERS, FISHERMEN, NEXT?

Labor Crisis Nears in B.C., Steelmen Out

Dark clouds gathered on the B.C. labor horizon today as three separate groups of workers geared for a showdown with employers.

The developments, in capsule, were:
Some 150 high steel men went on strike at midnight; another 450 (including 35 in Victoria) may lay down their tools later.

Leaders of the province's 26,660 woodworkers claimed 95 per cent (more than 90 per cent in Victoria) have voted for strike action in an unofficial ballot.

Salmon fishermen along the coast talked of stopping work in August, while shore workers also prepared for a walk-out.

TRAVELLING TIME

The steel workers, the men who swing girders into position high on construction sites, chose to strike in a dispute over travelling time. They also contest the employers' right to import labor from other provinces, notably Alberta.

Their action halted work on the $23,000,000 Second Narrows bridge in Vancouver, while pickets were posted at the B.C. Electric's Bridge River hydro job, the Peace River Bridge in northwestern B.C., as well as various stores and buildings throughout the province.

A mine at Saturna Island similarly faces complete shutdown for the duration of the strike and some small projects in Greater Victoria also may be affected.

East German spokesmen said Fuchs would be admitted to that country. Presumably he will go to live with his 84-year-old father, Prof. Emil Fuchs, at Leipzig.

The 47-year-old Fuchs was brought in a police-escorted car from Wakefield Prison, 180 miles northeast of London, where he had served nine years and three months of a 14-year sentence for giving British and American atomic secrets to Russia. He was given credit for good conduct while in prison.

HEAVILY GUARDED
Scotland-Yard men and airport police ringed the Polish airliner and the entire departure area as Fuchs went aboard.

The government had said that the German-born physicist was free to go anywhere after his release.

'NO RETREAT' ON BERLIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Christian A. Herter is reported ready to proclaim a "no retreat" stand in future talks with the Russians on the deadlocked Berlin issue in a television-radio report tonight.

His 15-minute speech will seek to explain why six weeks of intensive talks at Geneva failed to ease East-West tensions over Germany's fate.

Victorians can see Herter via the CBS-TV network on Channels 7 and 12 from 9 to 9.30.

WARM AND FRIENDLY

Quebec Hails 'Sunshine Queen'

QUEBEC (CP)—This was French-Canada's day to give the Queen, a sunny and happy welcome.

And from the time she left the Britannia in the beautiful backdrop of Wolfe's Cove where a French regimental band gave a lively serenade of folk songs, to the city hall where she discussed bringing up families with Mayor Wilfrid Hamel, father of nine and grandfather of 13, there was little doubt the welcome was both warm and friendly.

The warm weather brought the comment from one cabinet minister, "It is like the sunshine Queen."

The biggest crowd of people gathered in front of the grey-stone city hall, and after the

2 Escapees Hiding Out On Island?

(See Also Page 13)

The RCMP, working around the clock in the hunt for four escapees from William Head "open" penitentiary, now believe the fugitives split up shortly after their escape early Sunday.

There is a strong possibility only two of them fled to the mainland in a water taxi stolen at Chemainus.

This belief was strengthened when a cleaning establishment was broken into at Mission, on the Fraser River, and only two pair of pants stolen. Two jackets were stolen from a garage.

TWO ON V.I.?

It's possible two of the escapees are still on Vancouver Island.

The Mounties are maintaining strict lookout all over the Island.

Police are going all-out in an attempt to find the water taxi, but Inspector G. A. Gerrie, in charge of the manhunt from this end, said there's a possibility the boat may never be found.

"They could sink it," he said.

The U.S. coast guard and Washington State police are assisting the RCMP.

PRAIRIE-BORN

The escapees were born on the prairies, two in Saskatchewan and two in Alberta, and police have not discounted the possibility they may be heading for their native homes.

Charles Puff, 21, is the only city-born member of the fugitives. He was born in Edmonton. Alvin Boehm, 23 was born in Kelowna, B.C.; Ramond Stolz, 19, in another tiny Saskatchewan community while Peter Schneider, 22 is a native of Grand Prairie, Alta.

All the four are single men, but are believed to have relatives in their native towns.

The truck in which the four made their getaway was found near Chemainus Monday while

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O Lord Jesus Christ, we remember Thy promise that whatever is done unto the least of Thy brethren is done unto Thee. Grant us grace to lend the helping hand in need, the uplifting voice in despair. Help us to bring a ray of comfort into some cloud of darkening sorrow, a word of good cheer to some troubled heart in Thy name. Amen.

'MILLIONS FOR QUEEN, WHAT FOR FISHERMEN?'

(See Also Page 5)

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—"If the government can afford to spend a couple of million dollars on the visit of the Queen, they can spend some money on the stricken fishermen families of the Esquimaux district of New Brunswick," boxer Yvon Durelle said Monday night.

Catches have been poor all year. Durelle said in an interview, "and I'm $6,000 behind last year myself. Most of the fishermen from the stricken area have had a poor year up to now—it will take five years for us to catch up on the loss."

Liberal Bid For Commons Debate Denied

TORONTO (CP)—Twenty-two top CBC employees in Toronto, including four senior executives, announced today they have resigned in protest against "unprecedented surrender to political pressure" by the corporation.

Shortly afterwards in Ottawa, Liberal Leader Lester Pearson moved that the House of Commons go into a special debate on charges of "clandestine political influence" resulting in the resignations. Commons Speaker Roland Michener ruled the Liberal motion out of order.

The CBC men said in a group statement that the CBC's decision to cancel the radio opinion program Preview Commentary from Ottawa had "bartered away the integrity of national broadcasting in Canada."

The statement added that more resignations were expected later today. All those involved work in the CBC's department of talks and public affairs.

That department's three-member staff at Montreal and two members at Ottawa were also reported to have quit their jobs because of the program cancellation, announced at Ottawa last week.

Battle for Inquiry in House

In the Commons, Mr. Pearson's motion immediately touched off a procedural fight. The Speaker said he wondered whether the matter was one under the administrative responsibility of the government.

Mr. Pearson said the issue was a matter of responsibility to Parliament on the part of the publicly-owned CBC.

"Surely this House is entitled to inquire into such affairs," he said.

He said that to him the important matter seemed to be that a charge had been made by senior CBC officials of "clandestine political influence" being brought to bear affecting the way they could carry out their duties.

Gordon Cullingham, a CBC program organizer and spokesman for the group which resigned, issued a statement at his home where the 22 met. It said:

"By removing Preview Commentary from the air under political pressure the CBC management, with the concurrence of the board of directors, has bartered away the integrity of national broadcasting in Canada.

"As members of this department... our responsibility has been the presentation of programs on radio and television dealing with varieties of opinion, often political.

'All Programs Are in Jeopardy'

"Because of this unprecedented surrender to political pressure, the independence of all programs produced by this department is in jeopardy. We therefore can no longer do our jobs."

Ernest Bushnell, acting CBC president, issued a statement in which he rejected the inference that the program had been dropped because of political pressure.

Mr. Bushnell made his statement after a closed business meeting with nine other members of the CBC's 11-member board of directors.

The five-minute program Preview Commentary followed the 8 a.m. radio news and was done mainly by newspaper men who gave opinions on the news, mostly on parliamentary developments.

Among the officials involved:

David Walker, national organizer of commentary programs; Frank Peers, supervisor of talks and public affairs; D. Hugh Gillis, his assistant; and Bernard Trotter, supervising producer of television public affairs.

Others who have announced resignations include Del MacKenzie, producer of radio talks and public affairs; program organizers Eric Koch, Reeves Haggan, Arthur Stinson, Lewis Miller, Robert Weaver, Miss Dorothea Cox, Miss Catherine McIver, Mrs. Joan Lorraine, Miss Helen Carscadden, and Miss Margaret Fielder; program research assistant Miss Mary Pemberton and producers Robert McCormick, James Murray, Miss Christina McDougall, Mrs. Ann Robson and Mrs. Colleen Nordhoff.

Mr. Bushnell said Preview Commentary was replaced in a move to improve the CBC's coverage of Parliamentary news. The new program in that morning spot consists of a straight report on parliamentary news items prepared by the CBC news department.

Ross McLean, producer of Closeup, said Mr. Peers, Mr. Gillis and Mr. Trotter were "three of the ablest program administrators the corporation has."

"They are three men who could more than match the size of their jobs... They are calm, responsible, high-principled men with a strong sense of what the CBC should be doing and how they could help to do it."

Top Brass To Discuss Royal Critic

TORONTO (UPI)—The case of Joyce Davidson, the TV interviewer who "went on leave" after she criticized the royal tour, will be discussed at a meeting of top brass of the CBC here Wednesday.

Acting CBC president E. L. Bushnell said Miss Davidson's case will "undoubtedly be discussed" when the CBC board of directors meet.

"We will probably consult our provincial representatives about the matter," he said. Meanwhile, Loyal Brown, director of information services for the English network of the CBC, said today there was no doubt Miss Davidson will be back as an interviewer on the nightly "Tabloid" show.

Brown said calls to the CBC were predominantly for Miss Davidson's right to speak.

HOLLYWOOD—Puzzling new developments today reopened the case of the suicide of George (Superman) Reeves.

It was revealed his will left most of his $50,000 estate to Toni Mannix, a film executive's wife.

Attorney Jerry Giesler also announced $5,000 had been taken from Reeves' home. Giesler said he had information that a coroner's seal had been broken on Reeves' home after Reeves killed himself a week ago and that $5,000 had been taken.

Leonore Lemmon, 35, who was to have married the 45-year-old star of the Superman TV series, said there was another will, but it has not been found.

Monday he was fined $2.24 for being in possession of a firearm on a Sunday.

NEW YORK—Actress Marilyn Monroe underwent a gynecological operation at Lenox Hill Hospital this morning. Her doctor said her condition was "excellent."

Marilyn, wife of playwright Arthur Miller, has had two miscarriages. Doctors would not reveal her current trouble.

HONG KONG—Jacques Bergerac, former husband of Ginger Rogers, applied today for a licence to marry American movie star Dorothy Malone.

PARIS—French bedclothes makers have little to fear in competition from their European Common Market partners.

A review of the trade says the German, Italian, Belgian and Dutch industries are concentrating on turning out sheets for single beds.

From experience, French manufacturers have found there is little demand for single-bed sheets in France. Double beds are much more popular.

Royal 'Knocks' Suppressed?

NEW YORK (CP)—June Callwood, a Canadian writer, says in Look Magazine that Canadian newspapers suppress criticism of royal tours.

Canadian newspapers always treat the Royal Family "with respectful tenderness," says the former newspaper woman in an article in Look, out Tuesday. She adds:

"Prince Philip behaved arrogantly throughout his solo tour in 1954 yet not one of the indignant reporters wrote a word about it. When the Queen and Philip arrived in Ottawa two years ago, the crowd at the airport was far smaller than anticipated and their route into town was anything but thronged.

"Reporters from the United States and Britain commented about this, but Canadian front pages everywhere reported the welcome as overwhelming and enthusiastic."

MAY BE DIFFERENT

Miss Callwood says there are indications that coverage of the current tour of the Queen and Prince Philip will be different, adding:

"A feature writer assigned to cover the visit for one of the country's biggest newspapers commented idly to the editor that Philip's impatience and irritation were always the best-kept secret of any royal tour."

"Not this time," the editor is quoted as saying. "Get your facts straight and go to it. We'll print every word."

Miss Callwood says criticism of the tour is outspoken. One reason was that "Canada has been gripped by a recession which resulted in the heaviest unemployment since the war; and popular reaction was glum when the federal government admitted it would be spending $600,000 for the tour."

LABOR

they were in favor of a walk-out.

His boast came shortly before Labor Minister Lyle Wicks warned a work stoppage in the lumber industry would cost the province "well over $1,000,000 a day" in direct payrolls, lost production and a paralyzing fear complex engendered in buyers and business generally.

SERVICE VOTE FOR LIBERALS IN ONTARIO

TORONTO (CP)—The active service vote in the June 11 Ontario election favored the Liberals, it was announced Monday. It did not alter previously announced results, based on the civilian vote, in any constituency.

Figures announced by Roderick Lewis, chief election officer, showed that Liberal candidates in 87 of the province's 98 constituencies received a majority of votes cast by Ontario men and women on active service with the armed forces. The Liberals elected 22 members to the legislature.

The Progressive Conservatives, who won 71 seats, led in all other constituencies on the service vote.

A government-supervised strike vote will be taken among the coast loggers Friday.

Meanwhile, neither workers nor representatives of the 138 timber companies involved have made any move to reopen negotiations after the loggers spurned a 12-cent hourly increase over two years last month.

REFUSED

Talk of strike among B.C.'s salmon fishermen comes after the Fisheries Association refused to bargain with the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union over fish prices.

The association said such bargaining may be illegal under the Combines Act.

The UFAWU retorted it was planning the strike "in defence of the right to bargain collectively" and said it would call a stoppage the first week in August if no agreement has been reached by then.

Meanwhile, shore workers of the UFAWU have taken a strike vote over pay after union leaders recommended rejection of a conciliation board award of another 2 per cent over two years.

Result of the vote will be known Friday.

Queen, Philip Relax In Untamed Grandeur

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, getting used to the rapid pace of their Canadian tour, appeared more relaxed Monday as they visited the Saguenay region than they have since the tour's start. The Queen smiled happily and enthusiastically through the one-day visit to the Northern Quebec area. The prince, too, was in a sparkling mood. He frequently became absorbed in talking to people at various stops and had to rush to catch up with the Queen. The weather was erratic but the sun appeared to favor the visitors at the proper moments—breaking through fog and rain to enable them to see the untamed grandeur of the Saguenay River Valley and the tamed might of the industrial Lake St. John area.

They sailed from Port Alfred Monday night for Quebec City, where another full round of activities awaited them today.

Awed Tourists

The royal couple, who arrived in Canada Thursday to start a 45-day tour, appeared as awed as the average tourist by the scenic Saguenay.

As the royal yacht Britannia cruised up the mighty river 150 miles north of Quebec, the Queen and prince spent hours snapping pictures and gazing at the countryside.

As a tourist the Queen could be seen aboard the Britannia in a red slicker and bandanna pointing her camera at the massive walls of the Saguenay shoreline. She even followed and gave orders for the Britannia's foghorn to give a sharp blast so she could hear the weird series of echoes off the stark face of the capes of Trinity and Eternity.

Rain and lightning met the Queen as she disembarked at Port Alfred but the sun burst out almost immediately as she took off for a motor tour to Kenogami and Jonquiere, pulp and paper mill towns, and to Arvida, where one of the world's largest aluminum smelters operates.

'Whoops' Said Queen

Along the river banks, more Monday washing than flags waved in the breeze. But the couple's reception was warm.

The Queen, as she gingerly descended the gangplank at Port Alfred, almost skidded in a patch of wetness.

"Whoops, it's slippery," she exclaimed, startled.

The Queen was wearing an aquamarine blue and white spotted tailored suit with a white topcoat, which she doffed when the sun came out.

Flawless French

At Chicoutimi, the Royal couple was presented with a painting of a Saguenay River scene and introduced to about 100 district residents.

The prince chatted in flawless French with Bertrand Tremblay, Chicoutimi newspaper man, about Saguenay newspaper problems. At Arvida, he and the Queen walked through parts of the 1½-mile aluminum plant and were driven through other sections.

A huge pile of bright aluminum ingots awaiting shipment provided the backdrop for the Queen and prince when they reboarded the Britannia at Port Alfred.

The Britannia and her escorts—St. Croix and Restigouche of the Royal Canadian Navy and Ulster of the Royal Navy—left their screen of other destroyers at the mouth of the Saguenay and will rejoin it early today.

Before leaving, the Atlantic Fleet representation received a signal from the Queen which said: "Well done and I want to compliment you on the smartness of your ships."

THREE DROWNED AS TUG CAPSIZES IN ONTARIO

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP)—A veteran lakes captain and two seamen were drowned today when the tug Bayport overturned and sank in Georgian Bay a mile out from Collingwood harbor.

Capt. Percy Butters, 61; Ed McCoy, 53, and Kenneth McGinnis, 44, went down with the Bayport when it rolled over while towing a freighter through the ship channel into this port.

Three other members of the tug crew were pulled from the water.

The tug was hauling the 7,000-ton freighter Mohawk Deer. First reports said the tow line between the two vessels tightened just before the tug went down.

GENEVA (Reuters)—Russia rejected new British-American proposals Monday on the staffing of control posts to be set up to police a ban on nuclear weapons tests.

The proposals, submitted to the 100th session of the nuclear test ban conference, were that four Russian technicians might hold important positions in control posts inside the Soviet Union.

Russian delegate Semyon Tsarapkin said this was unacceptable. The Russians maintain that control posts inside

Ray of Hope

MR. FLEMING IS MAKING A strong and commendable effort to put the nation's finances in order, though he is a long way from his objective yet. But meanwhile it is satisfactory to hear from him that the Government will not go as deeply into debt this year as it had expected. Instead of borrowing $850 millions it will need substantially less Mr. Fleming says. Apparently an unexpected increase in revenue, supplied by a partial recovery in business, eases the Government's situation somewhat.

It should also ease the money market, a little anyway. Every dollar that the Government doesn't borrow will be available to other borrowers, governmental and private. The drain on the available supply of money will be reduced and that, in turn, may tend to reduce interest rates which were driven up by Mr. Fleming's huge loans.

More important even than the current interest rate is the public confidence in Government securities and the future value of the Canadian dollar. That confidence can be restored only if the investor foresees, not too far off, a balanced budget, an end of borrowing for current expenditures and then revenue surpluses which can be used to reduce the debt.

Mr. Fleming is trying desperately to move in that direction. He has repudiated his party's attack on the former Government for "over-taxing" the people and reducing debt, he has cut down his own borrowings, curtailed his deficits and risked unpopularity of higher taxes.

The task of the finance minister is not enviable when most of his colleagues apparently are pressing him all the time to spend more, regardless of consequences, but even the high, wide and handsome spender must have been shocked by the recent decline in the Government's credit.

Perhaps they have begun to learn the lesson of these events—an old, familiar lesson neglected for the last two years, at heavy cost. Perhaps also they have noted that other indicator, the Gallup Poll, which shows that the Canadian people are not as complacent about the financial state of the nation as the Government used to be before the bills came in.

Anyway, if Mr. Fleming at last is beginning, but only beginning, to get on top of the problem created by the Government's financial adventures he deserves the public's support. And undoubtedly he will need it within a Government like this.

In most governments the minister of finance is constantly at war with his colleagues who expect him to find all the money they want. In the present Government Mr. Fleming's struggle has gone badly up to now but maybe the tide is turning at last. If so, the bond market should begin to reflect the change as investors see the hope of future stability.

What Now on Saanich Sewers?

PROPERTY-OWNERS OF EAST Saanich have voted down the sewer by-law proposed for them.

This does not mean that a majority believes no sewers are required. It does indicate, however, an unwillingness to underwrite the particular scheme submitted to the people. The reeve will do well to recognize that fact when he proceeds with his proposal to present a slightly modified plan at the end of the year—provided the issue can be resubmitted in 1959.

An organized group in the region concerned evidently made good the case that the proposed expenditure was too high for the benefits its members foresaw.

Wide publicity has been given to the Saanich sewer question over a great number of years. The problem, it seems, will become more acute as population increases. Certain types of soil in the municipality cannot cope with heavy septic tank use and some more suitable means of waste disposal will have to be found.

If a future scheme can be devised which will locate sewer facilities in a way to encourage orderly growth in the municipality, then the financial problems of the district may be reduced. They will be costly enough without what is called urban sprawl.

Development of Saanich is going to cost money. The day of low taxes in certain areas is at an end. The sewer issue emphasizes that fact.

It is the opinion of former Reeve Joseph Casey, easy winner in the council by-election staged along with the sewer by-law vote, that a less expensive regional plan can be effected.

He will have ample opportunity to argue his case in council in the days ahead, and to submit it to the people of Saanich when he makes his bid for the reeveship at the end of this year.

It is essential, of course, that some method be found to handle the sewage of growing residential areas in a way that will avoid health hazards. Saanich has had its experience in that field before.

Wheels Within Wheels

PRIME MINISTER MACMILLAN reportedly has not lost hope that a summit meeting may still be arranged, despite the failure to date of the foreign ministers' talks. He is said to favor the top level conference even if the ministers fail again when they meet next month.

In this he differs from President Eisenhower, who has taken the stand that some reasonable progress must be made toward agreement before he will meet Mr. Khrushchev face to face. Mr. Eisenhower has witnessed this view somewhat from his original statement—he says that the progress need not be made in regard to the Berlin problem but may apply to any point of conflict.

Some observers now believe, however, that Mr. Khrushchev will not allow the foreign ministers to make any significant advance. It is believed that he wishes to appear at the moment of crisis and personally negotiate a settlement with the West. This would enhance his prestige at home and firmly establish him as the top man in the Soviet regime.

If this view is true, it appears that the Russian leader is prepared to take risks with world peace and with his own career in order to win important stakes. In any event he has achieved one objective—he has kept Western attention for several months off the issues of the Middle and Far East, and insofar as time may be his ally he has reaped what advantage this may give him.

Representing the Eskimo

OTTAWA IS NOW CONSIDERING a proposal to appoint an Eskimo to the Northwest Territories Council. This is the organization which functions as an administrative unit for the Canadian north and may eventually grow into a provincial government.

The suggestion has met the thoughtful objection that giving Eskimos administrative authority might be asking too much of them too soon.

At this distance it is difficult to see how the introduction of one Eskimo to the partly-appointed, partly-elected board of nine would thrust too heavy a load on the natives.

Canadians have been told in recent years of the change in Eskimo living—the adoption by them of certain features of present-day society, some of it beneficial, some of it harmful. Canadians have also been impressed by the difficulties of converting them from the ways of a nomadic people with a relatively uncomplicated existence into citizens of an industrial civilization.

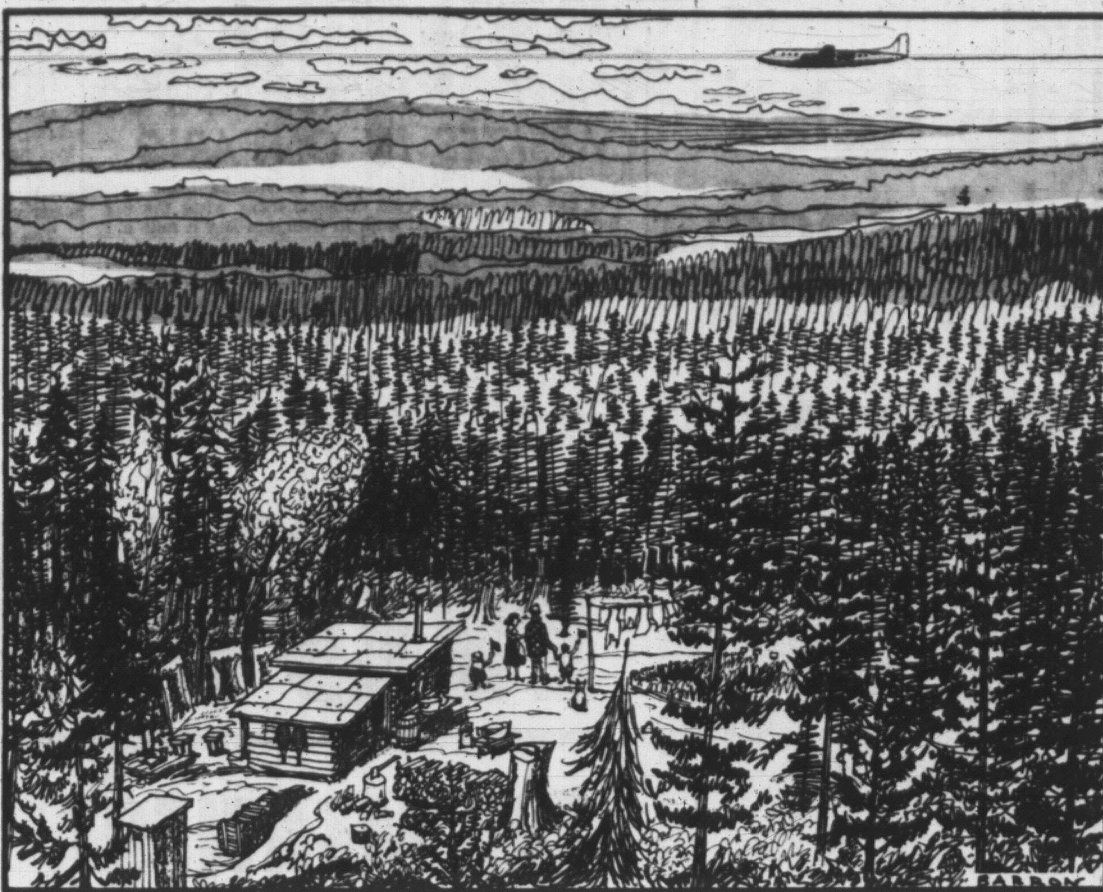

How better could Canada encourage them to assume the obligations of citizenship, as well as its rights, than by having one of their own on an administrative board? And how could the interests of the Eskimos be better understood than by an Eskimo?

The proposal has much to commend it.

In Search of the Abominable Snowman?

ELEVEN WOMEN ARE REPORTED to be preparing to climb Cho Oyu, a 26,750-foot mountain in the Himalayas so far unclimbed by man. They will do it the hard way, without benefit of oxygen equipment which would be too heavy for them to carry up on their backs. Success in such an attempt would certainly be something for the women to talk about, although not at that altitude. And the climb itself will be an interesting switch from the social to the alpine.

Mr. Stevenson Looks at Canada

SOME TIME AGO—I forget when or where—I wrote a few words that may be true: "The whole problem of the North American border today, as always since the American Revolution—is that our neighbors don't know what it means and won't bother to find out." At any rate, an American as eminent as Mr. Adlai Stevenson thinks that is true, and of course I am bursting with pride to find him quoting those words in his recent address at McGill University.

Hutchison

"We Americans," he said, "mostly don't know (about Canada) and we ought to find out about our closest friend and neighbor and biggest customer. But I wonder if Canadians know as much about the United States as they should, too? Perhaps we ought to appoint a joint commission of international psycho-analysis to help us."

THIS gentle rebuke is deserved. Assuredly we Canadians don't know as much about the United States as we should and consequently expect too much from it. Above all, as Mr. Stevenson says, we forget that the United States is a democracy.

"Canadians," he remarks, "sometimes speak as if they thought the United States should always act promptly and decisively to satisfy their needs and complaints, regardless of the needs and wishes of American voters. They don't expect their own governments to behave the same way and are fully aware that domestic political pressures limit the actions of their governments abroad."

"For our government to behave as they suggest it would have to be, in effect, a dictatorship, unresponsive to the opinion and desires of its own voters and able therefore to take prompt action abroad. But would Canada prefer that kind of neighbor rather than the present one with all its faults and weaknesses?"

MR. STEVENSON is too polite to mention it but the fact is that no small country like Canada has ever had anywhere, at any time, such a good neighbor as the United States. If the neighbor had been of a different character the independent Canadian nation would have ceased to exist long ago, as has happened to many small nations beside big neighbors. This is a fact to remember when the United States makes some foolish decision damaging to our interests.

Such decisions, now and then, are inevitable, as Mr. Stevenson says, because the United States system of government was designed primarily to compromise the internal conflicts between American interests but it was "not designed for rapid, decisive action in the realm of foreign affairs. . . . but now our internal differences are perhaps less urgent, while our external problems have become infinitely complex and acute. Our system may be obsolete but . . . any social-political system, especially in a democracy, is subject to a constant time lag."

THAT time-lag between the United States' old isolation and its present world leadership has always worried Mr. Stevenson. His attempt to cure it by bold leadership abroad no doubt is one of the reasons why (though far abler than his opponent) he was twice defeated for the Presidency.

Now calling himself an "expoliticalian," he still advocates a supreme effort by his country and its allies to end the gross disparity between their living standards and those of the majority of mankind, for "in my judgment this disparity . . . is the most important and fateful fact in the world today. And the worst of it is that instead of getting better it is getting worse. The rich are getting richer and the poor poorer as population grows faster than production in the poor areas."

IF the Western nations are to tackle this problem on which their own survival may well depend—Canada can play a large part, Mr. Stevenson thinks, because it is the historic middle man between the United States and Britain, is trusted by all the free nations and, of course, feared by none. Mr. Stevenson urges us to use that intangible but strong influence in Washington and London to support a huge new flow of capital from the rich to the poor nations lest they abandon the West in despair.

Perhaps we can do even better than that, I don't accept the view of Ralph Allen, editor of Maclean's Magazine and one of the nation's finest minds, that we should abandon military expenditures altogether because they are obviously wasted, and give all the money to foreign nations. We cannot afford, I think, to appear as neutrals in the world struggle (though neutrality was not Mr. Allen's proposal) but there is room here for a typical Canadian compromise.

WITHOUT being misunderstood, we could cut down a portion of our wasted military expenditure, say half a billion dollars a year, and use it, as Mr. Stevenson proposes, for sound foreign investment. And any such amount, coming from a nation of our size, would be understood by the majority of mankind, whereas our present position is little understood by anybody, including ourselves.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

Fluorine Over the Counter

The undoubtedly well-intentioned people behind the fluoridation program, it seems to me, could much more reasonably spend their time preparing, for frequent publication in newspapers and periodicals, articles on the value of fluorine.

By this means the public and especially those directly interested, the parents of young children, could be informed of the use in the home of this product; that it is available in several forms in local drug stores either as a tablet or by prescription, and that it can be added to the drinking water and milk for their children.

Why in the world this group of people think they have the privilege of suggesting, let alone promoting, a program whereby all the water for all the people is treated is beyond my comprehension.

It is to be hoped the city-wide promotion will be dropped at once. Simply stated, there is no need for it.

Communists in Politics

Due to the Stalin-Hitler pact and the onset of war with Hitler The Communist Party of Canada in 1940 changed its name to The Labor Progressive Party. Since then it has elected only one member to the Federal Parliament at Ottawa. That M.P.'s career in the house was ended in three years by his arrest and conviction in 1946 for conspiracy to divulge Canadian security secrets to Soviet Russia.

In the general election of March 1958, the LPP entered 18 candidates and received a total of 9,868 votes, about 15 of the total being 2,200 in 1955. It is important to keep in mind that Communism works through subversive methods. Unable to strengthen themselves through open democratic methods, these agents of Moscow practice deception on an unprecedented scale.

They are now about to revert to the name of The Communist Party of Canada, Labor not having been fooled by the Labor Progressive tag.

Right to Speak Up

Whether one agrees or disagrees with Joyce Davidson's opinion on Queen Elizabeth's visit is unimportant. What is important is her right to her own opinion, stated privately or publicly.

We in Canada pride ourselves on our freedom of speech. It's one of our great selling points over the Communist dominated countries. But what a mockery a thing like this makes of our vaunted superiority. And what a danger!

Our narrow-minded desire for conformity at all costs will accomplish exactly the same end results as the secret police of the countries we despise.

Farewell Parade

EVERY circumstance but one combined to make Trooping the Color at the Horse Guards on Saturday a splendid occasion. Brilliant sun made the uniforms glow and struck fire from helmet, breastplate, bayonet, and sword. A breeze kept the limes shimmering in St. James's Park. The men on parade were steady and the drill precise.

But for the officers and men of the 3rd Battalion Coldstream Guards, who provided the escort for the color and found one of the other guards and troops keeping the ground, it was a sad occasion. For the battalion, raised during the year of Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee, is to be disbanded later this year.

Those members of the battalion who took part in Saturday's birthday parade will at least remember how well they acquitted themselves in this most severe test of discipline.

Perhaps the real heroes were the men keeping the ground. They stood rigid in the sun for over two hours, and none flinched or fell. But to one observer at least the most moving event was the music of the pipers of the Irish Guards, superb in their green and saffron uniform.

Echo in Oxford Street

It was almost frightening to hear one of the pipers' tunes, "Let Erin Remember," echoing in Oxford Street that afternoon. Could this be a trick of the mind, or, since the sun was so strong, a mirage of the asphalt? It was in fact a small procession helped along its way by some Irish pipers and by two men carrying a banner with the words: "Sinn Féin London."

Visitors' Problems

The weekend was so fine that even those who had to come into Central London to work have entered a little into the mood of visitors. Indeed, London is slowly becoming used to the idea that it is as much on the schedule for foreign visitors as Paris or Rome.

A visitor from Yorkshire on a London bus asked how to get an address in Southwark. The first passenger he asked was from Queensland. The next was a woman from Milwaukee, who was delighted to learn that the "w" in Southwark is silent. The third passenger was a student from Asia, and the fourth, a Canadian, suggested that the conductor should be consulted.

The conductor was most helpful. He knew the routes and a railway route. But he had not long been in London himself. He was a West Indian.

Sellers' Market

Among the people of Britain who have never had it so good the men who hire out boats in the Thames must rank well to the fore.

When a family with picnic baskets arrived hopefully at moorings at Richmond on Sunday the welcome was restrained.

"How many are you?" the boatman asked guardedly, as though he himself hardly dared to count. Four adults and two children, he was told.

"That's a lot," he said. "You'd need one of the bigger boats." That seemed reasonable. "How long would you be wanting it for?"

It was wanted for a picnic, for an hour or two.

"Oh, no," the boatman said, "it would not be worth all the trouble of pulling the boat down the slip just for that, would it?"

A colleague of his agreed. "Why don't you have your picnic on the grass. There's plenty of grass—and it's really more suitable, grass is."

Foreign Edition

After their experiences in the last printing crisis, which taught them that the arm of the unions is a long one, most of the serious weeklies are understandably secretive almost furtive about their plans for the next few weeks.

The Economist, which last time diverted everyone by printing itself in a Swiss nursery, has tried Switzerland again but has run into difficulties because its old allies, the Roman Catholic printing unions, have decided for domestic reasons to present a united front with their Socialist colleagues.

The Economist's editor, Mr. Donald Tyerman, said that he had "contingent plans affecting a number of places in Europe." He could not be more explicit, as Mr. Willis, the general secretary of the London Typographical Society, is expert "at stopping up bolt-holes."

Mr. Kingsley Martin is equally mysterious about his arrangements for the New Statesman, although he, too, has "lots of plans." (Last time the N.S. was printed in France by a photographic process from original copies typed on sheets of cardboard.)

The Spectator is also playing mum; Mr. Ian Gilmour says that he has heard nothing from his editor about plans to print "in a non-union shop in the South of England." The only hard news to leak out is that the New Scientist hopes to appear by courtesy of a firm in Düsseldorf.

Shawnigan Conversation Piece

IN the warm evening at Shawnigan, after a 10-hour stint at manual labor on the place, or after a hard day over a hot outboard, you can wander down to the lake to take your brief ease.

A neighbor may wander over and the usual desultory conversation will start.

"Darn flies," he'll say, brushing away at mosquitoes and gnats. "Bad now, aren't they?" You summon up your energies to say "Yep."

"Nice weather, though," he'll continue, "real Shawnigan weather." And you reply "Yep" again.

Then he'll bring up the subject on his mind. "Say," he'll begin, "have you got your tax notice yet?"

That is the conversation topic at Shawnigan these days. From the nonpropane it evokes a soulful, "Brother!"

On folks at Shawnigan this year's taxes have come like a blow from a nail-studded club.

In some cases they are double last year's. In virtually every instance they're well up.

It is still possible to have low taxes in the Shawnigan district. If you have at least five acres, with none of it improved—that means mainly logged-off stuff with lots of rock and bush—you can claim classification for it as wild land.

Almost the entire lake frontage is not wild land. It's subdivided and can run up to $12 to $14 a front foot for assessment purposes. And a reasonable estimate places about three-quarters of it in the class of summer homes.

That means that people who get their most use out of Shawnigan during July and August are paying the equivalent of city taxes on what used to be the cabin called "the place at the lake."

You make inquiries to see why this has happened to you and you receive a polite answer, but no relief nor any prospect of relief.

Land assessments at the lake have risen as much as 400 per cent. Valuations are made on 60 per cent of the market price over the last four years up to the end of 1958.

The lowest you can hope for is $3 to $4 a front foot for the worst waterfrontage around the shore.

Buildings are assessed at 60 per cent of their replacement cost. And have you bought a two-by-four lately?

All this is part of the assessment equalization act change inaugurated in 1953 and now landing like a ton of Social Credit on summer home owners.

What do you get for it?

Well, it is explained, a lot of the money goes to schools—that is Cowichan School District No. 65.

And you get fire protection—which is provided by volunteers who submit a small budget each year for hose and equipment, since the men at the village do the actual fire-fighting for free.

Beyond that, lake residents point out, you get a mile of roadwork a year on the Cut-off. That's just enough to guarantee that the road will never be in good shape and that the apology for "any inconvenience" is a continual, smirking impertinence on a road-side sign.

So you haven't much to show for it, but you pay your taxes on 75 per cent of the assessed value of improvements, 100 per cent on land. And you begin to think about the National Trust which now administers so many of the "stately homes of England."

Wonder how stately a shack at Shawnigan would have to be before a similar system could be established in this country?

Still, it is possible to do something about these higher assessments. You can appeal within 14 days of receiving your assessment notice. That comes out right after New Year's. But who thinks of summer cottage taxes that soon after Hogmanay?

All we intend to do is breathe deeper. It's expensive air up there, but good.

IN SEA DISASTER

Beaverbrook Gives $5,000 To Start Fund

FREDERICKTON (CP)—Lord Beaverbrook announced Monday he will donate $5,000 to start a fishermen's disaster fund for those who suffered in the New Brunswick fishing fleet tragedy.

The British peer made the announcement from his home in London. He recently visited this province, to celebrate his 60th birthday.

The New Brunswick fishermen's disaster fund was established Monday by the Fredericton Gleaner and the Monthly Atlantic Advocate in joint sponsorship with the provincial division of the Canadian Red Cross.

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—The Queen has asked to be kept informed about the Northumberland Straits storm tragedy.

During the voyage of the royal yacht Britannia to this northern Quebec district, she kept a close radio check on stories of the storm and its aftermath.

Governor-General Massey sent a message of condolence on behalf of the royal couple to those who suffered loss of lives and ships.

OTTAWA (CP)—Everything possible will be done to see that help is given New Brunswick fishermen to restore their gear and equipment lost during violent weekend storms, Veterans Minister Brooks said Monday.

Mr. Brooks spoke as all parties in the Commons expressed sympathy for the loss of life.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker described the savage storm as "this terrible tragedy of the sea."

West 'Summit' Not Planned Say British

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain Monday threw cold water on speculation the West might hold summit talks during the East-West foreign ministers' conference.

A foreign office spokesman, asked about the possibility of such a meeting at a press conference today, said "no plans have been made for anyone to go anywhere."

The spokesman added that an invitation for West German chancellor Konrad Adenauer to visit Britain was still open but there were no developments.

Earlier today, Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd reported to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan on the Geneva conference, which resumes July 13.

Only Stay-at-Homes Can Use Sprinklers

Oak Bay council Monday heard a delegation object to a proposed sprinkling bylaw which would allow operation of underground installations only between 9 p.m. and 9 a.m.

A spokesman said home owners had to stay home if they wanted to water lawns.

But Reeve George Murdoch said cost of an electric timing device to turn water on and off Council members noted good humoredly no members have yet received invitations for Royal Tour events.

Coun. Gordon Elworthy said, "The only invitations we've received are invitations to pay more money."

The bulk of council business was referred to committees for decisions.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Sciatica

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Many people ask me what can be done for sciatica. This is pain along the big sciatic nerve which runs down the back of the thigh. Usually, I think it is associated either with arthritis of the lower part of the spine or with pressure on the nerve roots, exerted by material extruded from the back of a ruptured intervertebral disc. This is a cushiony disc like a cookie that is to be found between each two vertebrae (bony elements of the spine).

Alvarez

Sometimes, when one of the last two discs ruptures, and the extruded material presses on the roots of the sciatic nerve, one can suspect this strongly from the sudden onset of the pain; from its severity, and from the way the person limps in with a cane, perhaps with his body listed over to one side. Sometimes the diagnosis can be made with the help of a special X-ray study of the spine; also, by finding changes in the chemistry and the cell-content of the spinal fluid. Then a skillful surgeon can often give relief. Unfortunately, no matter how apparently correct the diagnosis or how apparently successful the operation, a few persons will continue to have pain.

Some persons with a ruptured disc seem also to have a poorly-functioning lower back, or a bad arthritis of the back, or perhaps a poorly-adjusted, nervous system, or some heart-breaking unhappiness.

As I often think, we in medicine, when we make a diagnosis, sometimes simply describe the patient's symptoms, using Greek words like paroxysmal tachycardia. Paroxysmal means, of course, coming in attacks, tachy means fast, and cardia means heart, so we simply repeat in Greek what the patient told us, that every so often his heart will suddenly start racing so fast that no one can count his pulse. And then, minutes or hours later, just as suddenly, the normal heart beat is resumed.

Usually, we doctors do not have any clear idea as to why the spell came. Often it seems to have been brought on by irritable nerves that control the heart, and many of these patients are certainly very nervous. Sometimes they have a marked tendency to allergy. I knew a man who, when he ate spinach, was likely to get an attack. I've known people who have had these spells off and on for most of their days. I never knew anyone who was seriously injured by the disease, and I never saw a man die in a spell.

If the spells keep coming frequently enough, a doctor might try a medicine which tends to prevent the spells from coming. But it is not always a safe drug, and so doctors prefer to avoid using it. If I had only an occasional attack of this type of rapid pulse, I wouldn't do anything about it. What I would do would be to keep a record to see if I did anything or ate anything before a spell, something that I could avoid.

Imports? Only the Tourists

Tourists from other parts of Canada at the flower and vegetable show in the Crystal Garden we are amazed at the earliness of our gardens.

They found it hard to believe everything they saw in the show, with the exception of the house plant section, was produced outdoors. The general belief was that most of the exhibits must have come from greenhouses or been imported from California.

ALL YEAR

Little did they know if you work it right, and get the co-operation of the weather, fresh vegetables and something in flower may be enjoyed during every month of the year in the Victoria and vicinity.

The December-January garden in an average year should yield leeks, celery, parsnips, purple-top turnips, Swiss chard, Brussels sprouts, late cauliflower, kale, winter and savory cabbage. All these may be sown during June and July, excepting the long season parsnips which are seeded in April.

July sowings of carrot, spinach and lettuce will give fresh pickings in December if the fall is mild.

Also many of the herbs continue to grow during the winter months and provide that extra flavor so necessary for long frozen meats. Sage, thyme, parsley and mint will contribute their quota from Victoria's winter vegetable gardens.

"Is there really a difference in tire quality?"

"There's a BIG difference in tire quality and Firestone makes the difference!"

Motorists who lose sight of the word "quality" are underestimating the critical importance of their tires. Because your safety depends on your tires, it doesn't pay to take chances with tires of unknown quality.

Firestone's fifty years of tire leadership is your guarantee of superior tire quality. Longer mileage and maximum safety are the dividends you receive from this long history of leadership.

Only Firestone has conducted fire research at the Indianapolis "500" Race. Every winner for 36 years chose Firestone tires—and paid full price in cash. Firestone engineers study the effect of the tremendous speed and heat of Indianapolis. This research leads to safer tires for your car.

Exclusive Firestone Tire Building Methods are the result of Firestone research. For example, Firestone Safety Tension Gum Dipping ends the principal cause of tread cracking. New Firestone Rubber-X is a new kind of tread rubber—gives far longer tire mileage.

Sixty thousand trained Dealers all over North America stand behind the Firestone Lifetime Tire Guarantee. Whether you need tires, batteries or accessories, it pays to turn in at the familiar Firestone sign of quality. Yes, wherever you drive in North America, you're safe with Firestone.

Gas Industry's Needs Analyzed

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

The 500 delegates to the 52nd annual meeting of the Canadian Gas Association conducted an all-out assault on Victoria Golf Club this afternoon. Long before they had begun swinging, however, one of the "players" unloaded some devastating swings of his own at the Empress Hotel.

Malone

W. H. Evans, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, teed off on problems facing the gas industry, Canadians' buying habits, democracy vs. Marxism, inflation, management, and government spending.

Mr. Evans' prowess on the links is an unknown quantity. He may be a flubber, a hooker; or he may wield a putter with all the finesse of a hippopotamus. But on the oratorical circuit he hits the ball down the middle, approaches the green with tact and vigor and drops his putts with Samuel Snead accuracy.

Hear he:
On the problems of the gas industry: "Long range planning and thinking are necessary to any rapid expansion of the gas industry in Canada... this (thinking) must never forget the cost of gas to the consumer."

On the buying habits of Canadians: "There is an excellent future for the sale in Canada of gas appliances... the big question is whether they will be supplied out of Canadian or U.S. production... the total sales of gas ranges in Canada in 1958 were 62,945... of this 26,815 of 43% were imported... this is a sorry commentary on our buying habits... I suggest the utilities check carefully their merchandising policies to feature Canadian products whenever possible."

On democracy vs. Marxism: "It is an undoubted fact that the family of an unemployed Canadian in this country today—savings, unemployment and supplementary benefits, baby bonuses and the like—is better off than the average family of an employed worker in Soviet Russia.

On inflation: "Putting it simply, it is sure that more is being taken out of the economy than is being put into it... the only way we are going to get the better of it and retain whatever strength there is left in the Canadian dollar is by taking decisive action and we're not going to get it until Mary and Joe Doakes demand it."

On management: "Management contributes to inflation in the sense that it often capitulates to unjustified wage demands to avoid a costly and crippling strike... a survey shows that in 1958 the average Canadian manufacturer made less than a nickel (4.6 cents) on every dollar of sales."

On government spending: "The astronomical sums... poured out year after year... are an enormous factor in the incipient inflation of the last decade... one is driven to wonder just how much bigger this snowball of government spending can get."

Watch in Shark's Stomach

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Two large sharks were killed in southern California coastal waters Monday. One had a man's watch in its stomach.

A boat captain, Joe St. Denis, said the watch was badly deteriorated and could have been inside the fish anywhere from 24 hours to as long as a week or two.

The shark was killed with four blasts from a 30-30 rifle about 11 miles off Catalina Island.

The second shark, more than 11 feet long and weighing 776 pounds, was captured a mile and one-half off the Balboa pier when it became tangled in a fishing net and was harpooned.

News of the two killings came as authorities stepped up efforts against sharks, one of which killed a skin diver off San Diego nine days ago.

Lifeguards in rescue lifeboats have been issued 30-30 rifles to kill any sharks, and the Marine Corps planned to establish a helicopter shark patrol.

Bonus for Andy...Blast for NHL Voting System

By DOUG PEDEN

You won't find Andy Heberton's name listed in the National Hockey League's record books as a member of the loop's 1958-59 all-star team.

Nor is he recorded in hockey history as last season's winner of the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy.

But as far as the New York Rangers are concerned, Andy Heberton deserved both honors and the Broadway Blues have proved they are willing to back up their convictions with more than words.

Rangers' general manager, Muzz Patrick, en route to the Western Hockey League meeting which opened today in Calgary, detoured by way of Victoria to drop a bonus cheque in Andy's hands. And it just happens that the cheque is for $1,000, which is exactly the amount Heberton would have received if he had been awarded the Byng Trophy for a second time.

While in the city, Patrick also took time to level a few shots at the voting system used to determine winners of NHL awards.

"I don't have a suggestion for a better method," said Muzz, "but I can't agree with any system that would leave Heberton off the all-star team and deprive him of the Lady Byng Trophy after his tremendous season."

"When a thing like this happens, it's time to change."

The Byng award, won by Heberton two years ago, is awarded annually to the NHL player "adjudged to have exhibited the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability during the season."

In one of the biggest surprises in the history of the award, Alex Delvecchio, of Detroit, nosed out Heberton by half a point—86.8 to 86.3—when the votes had been tabulated. The official margin was 87-86.

Voting for NHL awards is conducted in two stages, one halfway through the season and one after the campaign ends. The Detroit forward pulled up a 54-18 lead in the first-half balloting and the rugged Ranger had a 68-33 budge in the final half.

Heberton, the fourth highest goal-scorer in the NHL last season with 33 tallies, also had 29 assists for a season's total of 62 points, eighth best in the league. Delvecchio ended up with 54 points, on 19 goals and 35 assists.

Andy, with New York since moving up from Victoria Cougars after the 1955-56 season, had eight minutes in penalties last winter. The Detroit forward spent six minutes in the penalty box.

Keeping in condition at his usual summer job with a Victoria contractor, the modest Heberton admits he was surprised when Delvecchio won the award. "I thought I might have a pretty good chance," he said Monday. "But if I didn't win it, I thought it would go to Camille Henry."

Henry, also a Ranger forward, won the trophy in 1957-58 and finished third this time with 66 points.

The Victoria-born Patrick, formerly one of Canada's greatest all-around athletes and a former Ranger defenseman, had no doubts.

"As far as we are concerned, Heberton is the most underrated man who ever played in the NHL and it's a shame he hasn't had more recognition. Nobody is more valuable to our team and this bonus is just to let Andy know the way we feel about him. He's an all-star and he deserved the Byng Trophy."

"And it's time we started thinking about another method for NHL awards."

Surprise Payday

Perhaps three-year-old Terry doesn't understand why daddy rates all this attention from mummy, but she still thinks Andy Heberton is greatest hockey player in world. New York Rangers are inclined to agree and proved it by presenting Andy with $1,000 bonus cheque, which is reason Gail proudly rewards Ranger winger, who holds cheque which brought surprise payday. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

Koufax' Hitting's Funny But Pitching's No Joke

It doesn't seem possible—but Sandy Koufax can make rival batters look like worse hitters than he is.

It's no mean trick, too, when you consider that the 23-year-old southpaw speedballer thinks nothing of striking out 10 times in a row or going a full season with one or two hits.

It's a joke, son, when he's hittin' but it's not so funny when Sandy is pitching—and getting the ball anywhere near the plate.

Koufax, a Brooklyn-born $20,000 bonus baby who once sprained an ankle when he "tripped over the foul line" at Ebbets Field, looked like he finally is coming of age as a major league pitcher Monday night when he struck out 16 batters while pitching the Dodgers to a 6-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Koufax' performance fell one strikeout shy of the National League mark set by Dizzy Dean in 1933 but he did earn a couple of lines in the record book.

The 16 strikeouts snapped the major league record of 14 for a night game previously held by Johnny Vander Meer, Bob Feller, Bob Turley and Sam Jones.

The total of 16 strikeouts in one game also equaled the all-time mark by a left-hander shared by Rube Waddell, Nap Rucker, Jack Harshman and Herb Score.

At the same time the total equaled the club single-game strikeout record held by any Dodger pitcher—in this case, Rucker, July 24, 1909.

Koufax' brilliant effort may or may not herald a new pitching star for the Dodgers, as far back as 1955 Koufax struck out 14 Cincinnati Reds in one game and he has struck out more than 10 batters in several games. Yet he always has been an in-and-out starter for the Dodgers and Monday night's victory was only his 24th as a big leaguer in a five-year career.

Koufax struck out at least one batter in every inning up to the ninth. Three strikeouts in the final frame would have set a new major league mark, two would have tied Feller's existing record and one would have tied Dean's N.L. mark.

But he couldn't get them. As one of the worst hitters in baseball history, Koufax is constantly kidded by his teammates but seems to enjoy it as much as they do. In fact, he computes his batting average by keeping track of the number of fouls—rather than hits—he makes during a season.

ANOTHER SLANT

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—They were saying it couldn't be done long before the doctors gave up smoking so this corner has to go for the 4-to-1 price today and pick Ingemar Johansson to make smorgasbord of Floyd Patterson inside 10 rounds at Yankee Stadium on Thursday night.

Call the men in the white coats, if you will. And point out that Ingo hasn't as much as smashed an egg with his siege gun right hand in training.

But you don't have to go back to David and Goliath, or even as far as Eddie Arcaro, to prove that the favorite isn't always in the picture and every underdog has his day.

They chuckled at another foreign bloke named Max Schmeling a few years back when he was being readied as a sacrifice to young Joe Louis. One cartoonist depicted "Herr Mox" as a man going to the electric chair and, when the fight was delayed by rain, showed Schmeling as a man reprieved.

"I see something," Schmeling said stotically. Louis had won 27 in a row, 23 by knockout. Schmeling was 5 to 1 to become numbers 28 and 24, respectively. But he had indeed seen "something." To the consternation of the chalk players, young Joe was flattened in the 12th heat.

So much for odds and favoritism. Which brings us to the matter of firepower. There are pugilists who can "take you out" with one punch and there are those who have to belabor an opponent as if they were beating a rug before the target goes horizontal. Floyd Patterson is one of the latter. He does not have the one-shot opiate of a Dempsey or a Marciano.

The "Rock" was blowing the title to old Jersey Joe Walcott the night he went after the heavyweight hat. Then he launched one from right field, clipped old Joe on the kisser and, while he hit him a few more shots on the way down, Jersey on that one boffo had been launched all the way back to his native South Jersey.

Louis was to feel that firepower, too. Of the fight against Marciano in which Joe reached the end of the road, Louis recalled:

"It was like a guy beatin' you with a lead pipe. No matter where he hit me, it raised welts."

Marciano's tactics consisted merely of swinging both hands until there was nothing left standing but the referee. When he finally beat down the other man's arms and got a shot at the chin you could go collect all your wagers.

Yet even the Rock dropped when he caught it on the button, as he did before he rallied to beat ancient Archie Moore.

So there is a theory here that Patterson, who has been floored by such inept mechanics as Pete Rademacher and Roy Harris, could wind up extremely uncomfortable sleeping without a pillow on Thursday night. Because from the manner in which Ingo destroyed Eddie Machon there can be no doubt about his punching ability even if he has preferred to give that right hand a rest in training.

After all, Tommy Farr looked like the world's biggest boxing bum in training but Louis had to go all out to get the decision. Jimmy Braddock was a 1-to-10 underdog against Max Baer when he won the title. Ezzard Charles was a 6-to-1 favorite the night Walcott knocked him out and Louis was 10 to 1 when he took a split decision from Walcott in the biggest holdup since the Great Train Robbery.

Price means nothing. Punch means everything. Getting Old Fearless to pick Johansson may be the greatest psychological boost Patterson could get but being right-hand happy, Ingo's my man.

BILL HOSKYN

SOLARIUM DERBY

Bill Hoskyn is planning to build a boat, but the craft won't get beyond the planning stage until after July 19.

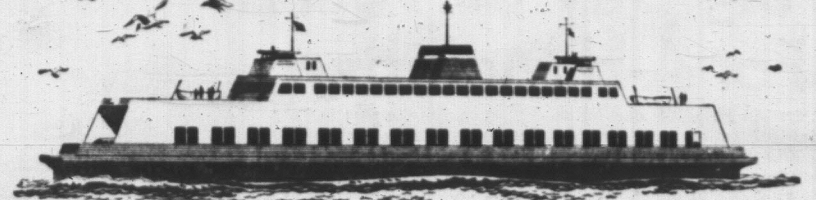

The reason for the delay is that Bill is spending almost all his spare time working on the Solarium Derby campaign, from which all proceeds go to help the crippled children at the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Helping out on ticket sales for the annual one-day fishing competition at Saanich Inlet, co-sponsored by the Victoria Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association and the Daily Times, is nothing new for Bill. Secretary-treasurer of the VSIAA he's been assisting derby campaigns for several years, but this time he is working harder than ever. He has already qualified for the derby's Century Club, which is open to those who sell more than 100 tickets to the July 19 competition, and hopes to make it 500 before derby day.

"When I see how much former derbies have helped the Solarium youngsters," says Bill, "I realize what a fine project it is. We can't do too much for those kids."

AT SAANICHTON SATURDAY

Big Day of Year For 4-H Members

It will be a big day Saturday for young people with a bent for agricultural pursuits ranging from the raising of dairy cattle to the growing of vegetables.

More than 200 members of Vancouver Island 4-H Clubs whose motto is "Serve God and Honor the Queen," will meet at the Saanichton Agricultural fair grounds for their annual field day.

They will take part in judging competitions for Jersey, Holstein and beef cattle, goats, rabbits and sewing articles.

The program will start at 8 a.m. and end at 5 p.m.

The field day is sponsored by the Malahat South 4-H Council which supervises club activities for south Vancouver Island.

Ken Jameson, B.C. district agriculturist at Duncan, will be in charge.

The competitions are designed to teach young people how to judge, select and grade the best of agricultural commodities.

But the main objective in the farm youth training program is much wider in scope. It aims to teach 4-H members the art of making selections and to develop their powers of observation and concentration.

"Our program is educational and our tools are farm commodities," explained Mrs. Echo Lidsier, B.C. 4-H Club supervisor. "Our objective is to make good citizens and to provide them with a training which will be useful in later life."

DAIRY SPECIALISTS

4-H Council officials expect a large group of boys and girls from Duncan and the Cowichan Valley for the field day. The members there specialize in dairy cattle.

Victoria members will include representatives of dairy, goat, rabbit, vegetable and sewing clubs.

Clubs from Chemainus and the surrounding district of Nanaimo will be represented at the meet.

Trustees Want Wages Arbitrated

NANAIMO (CP)—The Vancouver Island branch of the B.C. School Trustees' Association believes provisions for conciliation proceedings should be deleted from the Public Schools Act.

Meeting here during the weekend, delegates said they are not in accord with conciliation and agree it should be dispensed with so wage committees can go straight from negotiations to arbitration.

John Williams of Sooke, chairman at the meeting, said a single conciliator or team of conciliators might solve past experiences of present two-member conciliation boards becoming deadlocked.

The branch agreed to put before the Victoria convention in October its proposal that conciliation be done away with.

ISLAND BRIEFS

Woman, Boy Team Up In Rescue

CHEMAINUS — A married woman and a 15-year-old youth emerged as heroes in a near-drowning at Kinsmen Park beach Monday night.

Mrs. Rudi Gast and Bruce Baillie saved June Miller, 15, and her sister, Nancy, 21, from drowning when the sisters got into difficulties about 250 feet offshore while swimming to shore from a raft.

Mrs. Gast, swimming about 15 feet behind the pair, caught up and helped keep them afloat.

Bruce Baillie, fully clothed, swam out from shore and helped.

Between them they towed the sisters to shore.

The sisters were admitted to hospital suffering shock.

CHEMAINUS—The first aid team at the Copper Canyon operation of MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd. is practising hard these days for the B.C. first aid finals at Kamloops, June 27.

HIGH HOPES FOR LARGE YIELD

Duncan Teacher Testing African, Asian Grains

DUNCAN (CP) — Wheat seven feet high, fields of rice and other crops native to Africa and Asia will be grown in this district if experiments by George Prudhomme are successful.

Mr. Prudhomme, a fellow of the Nigerian Field Society and of the Zoological Society of London, has had a wealth of experience in such places as West Africa, Kurdistan and Burma.

A teacher at the Indian school at Chemainus Bay, he spends his spare time growing such strange crops as giant Egyptian wheat, a millet from the Far East known as hagar, and fields of rice.

He also has thick, lush blue lupins, noted for a high protein content, kale that towers above the average man, Spanish peanuts and other plants.

Mr. Prudhomme says he considers this part of Vancouver Island has the ideal climate for most of these plants.

"True, it does not have tropical temperatures or particularly heavy rainfall, but it has sufficient of both for the crops to be grown without difficulty."

"If one can find a species of plant which grows under similar conditions in its native environment, there is no reason why it should not be grown here."

"All my seeds are germinating at the moment and I have high hopes that the yield will be excellent."

"The Egyptian wheat should reach a height of seven feet within 100 days and should grow just about anywhere. Its big advantage is that it can be grown for both grain and silage. It has extremely high food value and is closely related to sugar cane containing a good deal of molasses potential."

"In poorer countries the grain is used for making bread but here its greatest use would probably be as food for pigs, cattle or horses."

The hagar, native to India and Asia, will withstand drought and, he said, has become popular in the United States because of its tremendous yield.

"When they think of rice," he said, "many people imagine whole stretches of land submerged in water. But that is necessary only for the water or swamp rice. Pearl rice and the hill rice could be grown here."

Mr. Prudhomme said he expects to raise six tons of hill rice per acre.

Lawyers Meet at Nanaimo

NANAIMO (CP) — Between 150 and 200 lawyers from all parts of the province will converge on Nanaimo this week for the annual meetings of the Law Society of British Columbia and of the B.C. Division of the Canadian Bar Association.

Formal opening of two conventions, attended by largely the same delegates, will be held jointly Thursday.

Convention speakers will include Attorney-General Bonner, Chief Justice A. C. Des Brisay, and Maj.-Gen. C. A. P. Murison, president of the Union of B.C. Municipalities.

The law society and the bar association are two separate organizations. Membership in the Law Society is mandatory for every practising lawyer in the province but membership in the bar association is voluntary. In most cases active lawyers are members of both groups.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia. Canadian editions and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times. Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Bill Banker, age 10, of Oakland, Calif., for his question:

What forms an alluvial fan?

An alluvial fan is first cousin to a delta. Both are spreads of muddy debris dropped by running streams. A delta is a flat triangle of muddy silt dropped where a river meets the sea. An alluvial fan forms where a mountain stream runs down into a valley. The wide end of the fan spreads over the valley floor. The narrow end is tipped up the slope.

The word alluvial refers to mud, silt, sand and gravel deposited by water. The engineer who makes the alluvial fan is a mountain-stream gusher. It has a steep sided gorge. It has speed and power enough to tote along quantities of muddy debris. New debris is always being added as the stream dashes against its stony prison walls, chipping off fragments and loosening pebbles.

Suddenly the gorge widens and the busy little stream runs down onto a wide flat valley floor. No longer pushing its way through the gorge, the stream suddenly loses much of its energy. It slows down and when this happens the heavier particles toted in the water begin to sink. They fall to the bottom creating a floor of sediment. The stream must now cut its way through this mud and it does so by dividing into channels which link and separate. It becomes what is called a braided stream.

From time to time, the head waters of the stream bring floods, the braided stream is swamped, and new channels are cut in the alluvial deposit. These new channels seek the lowest areas in the mud and the fan builds up a symmetrical shape with one deposit upon another.

Upstream in the valley, the edge of the fan is being carried away by erosion. Meantime the steep slope down from the mountains is built into a gentle curve. Instead of coming down into the valley with one big jump, the stream now slides down with a smooth swoop. The alluvial fan is quite an engineering feat and it is worked out by the stream to get an equal balance of forces between its steep sloping gorge and the flat wide valley floor.

Each Fan Has Distinction

Though the same in character, each alluvial fan has its own features. A wide stream with a load of fine debris tends to build a wide, gently sloping fan. A small stream, carrying a coarse load of sand and gravel, tends to build up a short, steep fan.

In most cases, the alluvial fan is not a long lived feature on the face of the earth. If for some reason the stream which made it dries up, it will last longer but even so, wind and weather will finally wear it away. Once in a while, an alluvial fan spreads clear across a valley floor. When this happens, a natural basin is formed. Into this hollow may be trapped the waters of the stream which made the fan together with the waters of other mountain streams. The hollow basin caused by this type of alluvial fan may in time become a lake.

Andy sends a Hammond's International World Globe to Freda Van Natten, age 11, of Howes Cave, N.Y., for her question:

Which is the biggest star in the sky?

The biggest stars are the red supergiants. One of the biggest is Antares, the big star at the heart of the summer constellation Scorpius, the Scorpion. This star is 390 times the diameter of our sun. If Antares were to replace our sun, it would engulf Mercury, Earth and Venus and its outer rim would reach almost to the orbit of Mars.

Some stars vary in size, they swell up and shrink. One of these is the red supergiant Betelgeuse in the winter constellation of Orion, the Hunter. At its smallest, Big Bet is about 360 times the diameter of the sun, somewhat smaller

ARCTIC BIRD HAVENS SET UP

OTTAWA (UPI)—Two new bird sanctuaries have been established in the Canadian Arctic. It was announced today.

The new sanctuaries, the East Bay and Harry Gibbons, are situated on the east and west coasts of Southampton Island in northern Hudson Bay. The area has long been a nesting ground for snow and blue geese, king eider, brant and many other species of migrating water-fowl.

BIG AMPHITHEATRE UNEARTHED

New 'Colosseum' Found in Rome

ROME (UPI)—Ruins of a huge amphitheatre, second in size only to the Colosseum, have been discovered in Rome.

Art superintendent Giulio Jacopi said the site of the discovery is near the basilica of Santa Croce (Holy Cross), an ancient Roman structure where it is said Helene, the mother of Emperor Constantine, gathered relics of the passion of Christ.

The digging, thus far, indicates that the amphitheatre is about 500 yards long and 120 yards wide. The Colosseum in downtown Rome is 200 yards across at its widest part. The discovery, as in many other archaeological cases, was accidental.

The bottom of the amphitheatre came to light as a result of extensive digging for a new subway.

The amphitheatre was not the only remarkable discovery in the area, Jacopi said. At considerable depth, a short distance from it, ruins of the palace of Emperor Constantine also came to light.

Constantine was the first Christian emperor of Rome. He reigned from 306 to 337 A.D.

One of the palace's vaults shows several painted decorations with a red painted eagle in the middle. Some black and white mosaics also were found.

CUT-RATE JET—The "Freedom Fighter," above, is a relatively cheap, easily maintained jet fighter for U.S. allies. It will be manufactured by the Northrop Corporation. The plane, a variation of the U.S. T-38 trainer, is designed to meet the needs of NATO, SEATO and other Allied countries for a low-cost, all-weather fighter that can deliver bombs as well as the latest air-to-air missiles, such as the Sidewinder mounted on the stubby wings of this prototype.

Escaping Prisoner Injures Warden

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—A fleeing prisoner ran down the superintendent of the Brandon provincial jail with the official's own car Monday and then used the vehicle to breach the fence of the jail compound.

The 29-year-old trusty, identified as Edward Peter Larocque of Transcona, Man., offered no resistance when RCMP recaptured him within a mile of the jail 40 minutes later.

Superintendent William Sutherland, 69, was reported in good condition in hospital after suffering a badly bruised left leg and a shoulder injury. The car struck him as the escaping prisoner tried to guide it through a partly-open gate in the jail compound.

The escape attempt was the second outbreak of violence at the jail in a week. Last Friday, three young prisoners gave a severe beating to jail guard William McKeag.

McKeag still is in hospital with head injuries and the three prisoners, whose names have not been released, are in close confinement awaiting action by the Manitoba attorney-general's department.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—"Dog Lovers of the World, Unite!" cried Hermione Gingold while "Mr. Poodle," 14, up on the divan beside me, stuck his nose in my pocket.

"People who love dogs ought to get together and dog-sit for each other," she preached vehemently.

"Here I was all ready to go to Las Vegas for a wonderful vacation!" blazed the British comedienne, who is an irregular regular on the Jack Parr TV show. "I splurged. I bought cowboy hats... high boots... I was terrified I'd be bitten by snakes if I went walking in the desert... I was going to gamble... Lena Horne was going to show me around."

"But now it's all off. I couldn't find one hotel who'd take 'Mr. Poodle' in," she said sadly.

"When poor 'Mr. Poodle' passes on, I'll go," Hermione has had this trouble many times over her devotion to "Mr. Poodle." Once in London she heard of a well-to-do woman who dog-sat for pleasure.

"My friends told me, 'This woman is almost a dog herself,'" Hermione recounted laughingly. "She came to the door, very dignified—and she was eating a dog biscuit!"

"I suppose she was a bit absent-minded. She probably gave the dogs her dinner and ate theirs."

Tales like this flowed constantly from Hermione. She alleged that sometimes Jack Paar's office "rings up and says, 'My goodness, nobody's going to be here tonight—will you come?'"

"The other night they had on this professional insult. I wonder whether there's any country where people make a living insulting you."

"It would be nice, though, if you could insult people in the legitimate theatre. If you could stop during a speech and say 'Shut up your coughing out there!'"

"What in your opinion was wrong with your play 'First Impressions?'" we asked Hermione.

"It was clean. Tennessee Williams has got us used to almost everything."

Hermione believes she has the only Chinese fan club—it started in San Francisco—and she also has a mysterious fan who sent expensive gifts backstage. One night the doorman said, "The gentleman who's been sending you the presents is here."

"I anticipated an elderly mustachioed swain in a limousine. He was a boy of 16 with braces on his teeth! He said: 'I hear you're going to Las Vegas. I brought you a roulette wheel.' Does anybody need a roulette wheel?" Hermione asked the world at large.

The teenage fan later came to her apartment unexpectedly.

"You mustn't come up like this. I'll phone you," she told him.

"Don't phone me in the morning—I'm in school," he said.

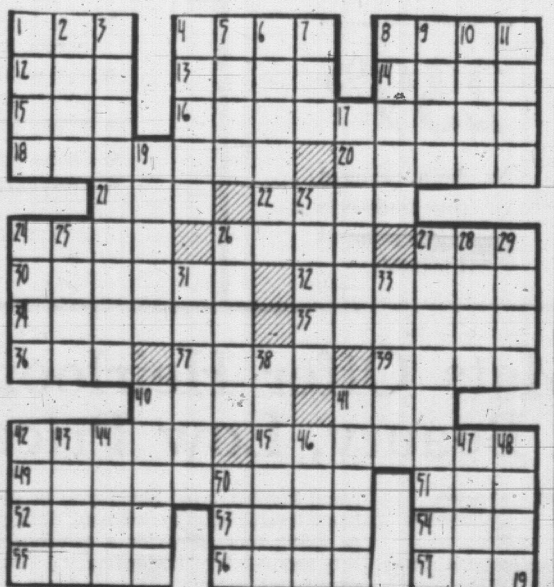

Twice married, Hermione doesn't expect ever to get married again, to teenager or creaking millionaire.

"I do think, though," she announced suddenly, "that everybody should be married twice."

"Why, for Heaven's sake! queried the reporter.

"You've got to have experience to be a success at anything! The first time you're married you really don't know anything about it!"

"Shortage of even drinking water has happened too frequently to accept assurance that it was an oversight. Stale sandwiches and bitter coffee have been the rule rather than the exception," said the brief.

ice on the route continued today.

... HERE AND THERE ... With NORMAN CRIBBENS

High above the hilltops lives Ralph Miller, fire-spotter for the B.C. Forest District at Langford.

On Sunday he climbed to his little wooden hut, mounted on trestles, far above the dark green spruce—with Ogden Point and Christ Church Cathedral mere dots in the distance.

"Are you lonely up here?" we asked him.

"No," said Mr. Miller. "There is so much to see and so much to do."

Mr. Miller watches the migrations of birds above his lonely pinnacle and makes eight entries a day in his log of weather and temperature.

Between times he gathers wood for his stove (in the sky) and writes letters to his wife and friends in Victoria.

What did you give Dad on Father's Day?

Most practical was that of Mrs. Irene Burns of Moss Street—a set of paint brushes for decorating the bathroom.

Most whimsical—a book on Japan to Joe Lorrimer from his wife, who has always wanted to go there.

From Burnaby Mrs. Dorothy L. Cook writes to ask if any Times reader has heard of a lively Scottish ballad, written in the early part of the century, which goes:

Maggie, the cows are in the clover,
They've trampled it since morn,
Go and drive them, Maggie,
To the old red barn.

Mrs. Cook thinks this song may be extinct—like the Italian volcano.

Donald Gillingham, formerly of Victoria and Vancouver, now lives in a cottage at Loughton, Essex, England, and practices gardening and writing on alternate days of the week.

One day he will be out working in a neighbor's garden. Next day he'll be engaged on a new book—usually a nature study. One of these, Unto the Fields, was highly praised by British book reviewers.

When he was invalided out of the RCAF in 1945, Don decided to strike a balance between mental and physical activity.

"I believe a man should divide his time between the two," he writes.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

There's a thief somewhere in the city who likes to pull out the red carpet—for himself.

R. P. Seabrook, of Colvan Apartments, 1855 Fort, told city police someone took a 50-foot red carpet liner from a hall overnight Saturday.

John J. Pickford, 20, of 1601 Esquimalt Road, charged his passenger-laden car out of a drive-in, went the wrong way down a section of one-way street and reached a speed of 65 miles an hour in a 30 zone before police stopped him.

In city police court Monday, Pickford pleaded guilty to a charge of criminally negligent driving, was fined $75 and his driver's licence was suspended.

Frank French, 2530 Vancouver Street, previously fined for impaired driving, was re-sentenced in city police court Monday to driving for business purposes only for six months.

William Hilton, no fixed address, was sentenced in city police court Monday to 20 days in jail when he pleaded guilty to a charge of begging from tourists along the Causeway.

A half-dozen eggs, a safety razor, a jar of instant coffee and a radio totalling $30 value were stolen sometime Sunday from the home of Mrs. E. Nye, 952 Pandora.

She told city police a rear door had been left insecure.

A demonstration of grading, packing and candling of eggs will be given at the Keating's Farmers' Institute Hall at 8 p.m. Thursday.

An airplane which disappeared in the Cordova Bay area over the weekend has been found floating upside down. It flew away from a Victoria Model Airplane Flying meet at Gordon Head, Dan Ockenden, 2436 Central, nearly ran over the model in his boat. Owner Bill Stubbings hopes to have his model in the air again for the next club meet July 19—complete with a new device which will force it to land after three minutes.

Victoria Camera Club meets Wednesday at Greater Victoria Art Gallery at 7:45 p.m. Slides of "Vacationland" will be shown. Visitors will be welcome.

BIG REVIVAL

Prospectors Combing Charlottes

A big revival in prospecting for minerals is under way on the windswept west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands, Charles Guiguet, Provincial Museum biologist, reported today.

Mr. Guiguet has just returned from more than a month on the island with a geological party, headed by Dr. Atholl Sutherland-Brown, which is searching for minerals.

He said prospectors are combing the area for minerals and an oil company is making extensive drill tests for oil in the shallow waters off Graham Island, the northernmost island of the Charlottes.

The biologist, who went to the Queen Charlottes to collect information on birds and animals inhabiting some of the little known islands, said two ancient abandoned Indian villages were discovered.

Rainbow corps, Royal Canadian Sea Cadets, will perform the sunset ceremony at the Legislative Buildings this evening.

Two teen-aged boys are in hospital today recovering from injuries received in falls Monday evening.

Lyle Campbell, 16, of 4090 Gordon Head, is "satisfactory" with mild concussion, the result of being thrown from a horse behind 4417 Tyndall at 5:30 p.m.

At 8:30 p.m. Robert Peden, 13, of 2845 Rockwell, was taken to Jubilee with a broken wrist and shock after he fell from a tree in Gorge Park while at play.

Two business men were fined a total of $70 in city police court today when they pleaded guilty to charges of failing to file returns for social security tax.

V. C. Walters, 3320 Shelbourne, paid $10 each on charges covering the months December-April inclusive plus $2.50 costs.

Frank Emery Schroeder, 581 Niagara, was fined $10 on charges covering March and April.

Ralph Smele, 1141 Caledonia, was fined $50 in city police court today when he was found guilty of assault causing bodily harm to a neighbor trying to get his dog from Smele's house June 8.

John Turick, 1159 Caledonia, said Smele hit him with a ring or bottle, causing a large cut over one eye which needed 11 stitches to close.

Turick had gone into Smele's house after his dog when Smele whistled the dog away from its owner, court was told.

Tailored-to-Task Appearance Forecast For Home Cooking Appliances for 1969

A U.S. gas expert peeked into the future today and predicted that in 10 years residential cooking appliances and services will have undergone a whole new "tailored-to-the-task" look.

T. L. Robey, director of research for the American Gas Association, told 500 delegates to the 52nd annual meeting of the Canadian Gas Association in Empress Hotel that in the future the majority of cooking equipment will be built-in, "either as modules or as composite parts of a multimatic wall."

Other predictions:

"Many top burners will be of the concealed or fold-away types."

"Thawing and heating of frozen baked foods will be done by forced convection which will also enable baking or roasting in half the time now required."

"We shall have more radiant type broilers, rotisseries and ovens for speedy, succulent cooking, again in half the usual time or less."

"Furnaces and boilers as we know them today will still be with us but the trend in new equipment will include in one small package both heating and cooking with the more advanced models controlling humidity as well."

"Clothes dryers will have automatic lint eliminators."

"Pipeline construction and operation will be safer and through automation, pipelines will be more efficient; underground storage and delivery will be more economical."

Delegates were told by F. J. Pfluke, Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation, that "major advances have been made in all phases of natural gas distribution safety."

Hammering at natural gas critics as "short-sighted," Mr. Pfluke said all forms of energy can be dangerous if not properly controlled and handled—"it makes no difference if it is electricity, gas, oil, coal, wood or lighted cigarettes."

Researchers have developed a plastic pipe to the point where it will have "the necessary strength to be corrosion proof without having to resort to cathodic protection and wrapping."

A new sonic method of detecting leaks instantly is also being perfected, he said.

Delegates took time off from business sessions this afternoon to participate in the CGA annual golf tournament at Victoria Golf Club and to tour Butchart Gardens.

Business sessions resume Wednesday morning. Key speakers are A. C. Ashforth, president, Canadian Chamber of Commerce and The Toronto-Dominion Bank, and Dr. John Davis, research director, B.C. Electric.

Station Robbed Of Tools

Car Also Stolen In Saanich Case

Hand and power-operated mechanics' tools valued at nearly $2,000 and a 1958 station wagon were stolen in a burglary of Parkdale Service Station, 3415 Douglas, in Saanich, overnight Monday.

Rolls of coins left in an open safe were untouched.

Apparently to help carry the heavy tools away, the thieves took the station wagon, which had been left locked outside the service station. They found its key in the office, an employee said.

The employee said the shop was literally cleaned out. Heavy tools owned by the station included impact wrenches and an acetylene welding rig.

ALL INSURED

A value of about $1,500 was placed on these, and other tools belonging to a mechanic were valued at $400. All tools were insured.

Entry to the station was gained by means of taking the putty from around glass of a north side window, then removing the pane, unobserved, from Douglas Street or intersecting Saanich Road.

A 24-hour service station across Saanich Road noticed nothing unusual apart from slight activity around the robbed station about 3 a.m.

Goodwill Trip Damage Probe Postponed

Survey of damage arising out of the RCN's "Columbia River incident" has been postponed until the spring freshets have eased off.

Three representatives of the Canadian government visited Portland Monday to undertake a joint survey with the U.S. army engineers, but it was agreed the waters were too high to get a proper look at the damage.

The incident occurred when a six-ship squadron of Esquimalt-based destroyers was steaming up the river toward Portland on a goodwill visit to the Rose Festival.

PILOTS ABOARD

Damage to dikes was caused by the wakes of the ships, each of which had a Columbia River pilot on board.

Representing the Canadian government in Portland Monday were army Capt. G. Ross Turner, deputy judge advocate for armed services in the west; Robert Ross, of Underwriters Adjustment Bureau, Vancouver; and Wilfred Pegusch, of Swan, Wooster and Partners, Vancouver consulting engineers.

A U.S. army spokesman said another inspection will be made when the level of the river falls.

Several farmers had threatened to sue the Canadian government, but no legal actions have been filed.

PORCHLIGHT BRIGADE NEEDS YOU

Call went out today for any clubs and organized groups willing to help canvass in tonight's $50,000 "porchlight" drive by Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society.

"We're still desperately short of canvassers," said society secretary Glen Hamilton. "We need at least 500."

"If we can't get individuals, then we must ask clubs and all similar organized groups to come forward."

Would-be canvassers should call headquarters office at EV 5-0811.

Areas particularly in need of volunteers willing to knock on doors and ask for money for the drive are Esquimalt, Uplands and James Bay.

The $50,000 will be used to equip the society's new 26-unit apartment block for old people at Styles and Craigflower, and to start another one.

'Tighten Up' Plea Follows Prison Break

Demand mounted today for stricter regulations at the William Head "open" penitentiary on the heels of a four-man escape Sunday.

Civic leaders agreed that if the prison isn't functioning properly, changes should be made.

Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch said William Head may be the right type of prison but that obviously the wrong type of prisoner was being sent there.

A convicted child slayer escaped more than a month ago.

TIGHTEN UP

"They should tighten up their selection of inmates," Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtel said. "If a prison is wide open you defeat the purpose of putting a man in prison."

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell, called for strengthening of security regulations.

"They are trying out a new idea to give the prisoners less restraint. Apparently it isn't working out."

Reeve George Chatterton, Saanich, said: "If inmates can't justify the trust placed in them, the jail should be removed."

TO MAINLAND

Mrs. M. Murray, long-time resident of the area, said the prison should be moved away entirely, "back on the mainland with the other prison."

"We are not happy with it here."

Charles G. Argall, who lives near the prison, said recent escapes bore out what a protest petition predicted when the establishment was first opened.

'Mr. X' Identified As Airlines Clerk

Royal Jubilee Hospital's amnesia patient still could not remember who he was today, although police say they have definitely identified him.

They gave his name as Robert George Stanley Jervis, 21, of 1716 Pendrell Street, Vancouver, a ticket clerk in the head office of Trans-Canada Airlines.

A TCA employee was due here later today from Vancouver to talk to Jervis in the observation ward at Royal

B.C. to Share Quadra Project

Province to Pay Half Of Street Rebuilding

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton Monday disclosed the provincial government has given him verbal assurance it will share the cost of reconstructing Quadra Street from Tolmie to the Patricia Bay Highway.

Total cost of reconstructing the 5½-mile stretch will be about $350,000.

The improved highway would alleviate the growing traffic congestion on the Patricia Bay Highway.

The government's decision was a victory for the reeve, who has held that Saanich should not have to bear the full cost of reconstructing the street.

Work will start as soon as official approval is received.

HANDED BACK

The street formerly was a provincial arterial highway but it was handed back to the municipality when the government constructed the Patricia Bay Highway.

It was badly in need of repairs when it was turned over to Saanich.

The reeve said traffic on Quadra would increase when the new ferry service starts between Sidney and the mainland.

UNBEARABLE

"Under present conditions, heavy traffic on Quadra would become unbearable," he said.

He said the government's decision to share the cost will permit Saanich to construct sidewalks on Quadra. But such a project would depend on council, he said.

A portion of the street was scheduled to be repaired this year under a council-initiated local improvement bylaw, but this has now been set aside in view of the new developments.

Art 'Plunder' Cry Debunked by Carl

Foreign collectors of native B.C. arts are doing this province a favor when they pick up rare items, Provincial Museum director Dr. Clifford Carl said today.

Commenting on a lead article in Maclean's Magazine this week, which claims the native art of Canada is being plundered, he said, "This is a hue and cry I don't subscribe to too strongly."

"These collectors have done us a service. What does it matter whether these items are displayed here or elsewhere? They still serve to create an interest in British Columbia and improve the general knowledge of the province."

SWEET BARE

The magazine says foreign collectors have practically swept the country bare of irreplaceable native relics and pioneer art. "And the plunder still goes on almost unheeded and unchecked."

Dr. Carl says the museum has a basic collection of good quality items which would not be greatly enhanced by adding to the quantity.

50 PER CENT CUT

But he admitted it has been necessary to cut the budget for adding to the Museum collection by 50 per cent this year.

The amount made available to the Museum for this purpose appeared low in comparison to the overall budget—$500. The total budget is $62,892. Salaries and wages for a staff of 10 accounted for $45,590.

The Museum has not stopped growing, however, said Dr. Carl emphatically.

"We are gradually collecting materials but we can't compete on costly items."

If Varicose Veins Crop Up, Don't Delay, See Physician

So many women have varicose veins! In fact it seems to be the exception for a woman to be completely free of these from middle age on and many very young women are made unhappy and uncomfortable because of them.

Perhaps the most important bit of advice I can give you is to see a physician as soon as you notice this trouble. At whatever stage your varicosity may be, you should see one—the sooner the better. It is important to get treatment early. Needless pain and trouble later on may be avoided by early preventative measures.

Varicose veins are not only ugly to behold but they can cause you great discomfort and even become dangerous if neglected.

It has been estimated that more than half of the adult population has some degree of varicosity. Women are more subject to this than men. Pregnancy is a predisposing factor. Tight girdles and garters and standing for long periods each day also play their part.

As a preventative and corrective measure you should put your feet up whenever possible.

Take short rest periods with your feet higher than your head, or if that is not possible, at least place them on a chair when you sit. If your work keeps you at a desk or sitting for hours at a time, periodically get up and walk about the room.

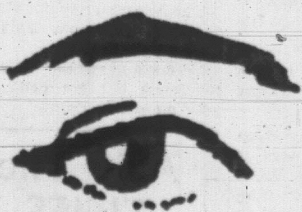

Elastic stockings are a help but these should be fitted to you individually. Some of the newest ones are quite sheer.

Medical treatment for extreme cases usually consists of injections, or surgery to remove the offending veins. However, so many extreme conditions could have been avoided had the patient seen a doctor in the early stages of the trouble.

DEAR ABBY...

It's Not Ruined Yet, Honey!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I went to a dance with a boy who is what you call a sissy. I knew this before I went with him but he was the only boy who asked me and I wanted to go.

I like to mix with others. He doesn't. When we got to the dance I started to mix with others. We kind of lost track of each other. There was a big mix-up. My date started looking for me outside by the parked cars. Anyway, when it came time to go home, I couldn't find him.

He claims he stayed until the janitor locked up. My girlfriend and her boyfriend took me home. Now it's all over town that I ditched this kid. How can I explain and get my reputation back?

REPUTATION RUINED

DEAR R.R.: What's there to explain? You violated the first rule of good datesmanship—"to stick with the guy who brings you." The only way to repair your reputation (which, by the way is not ruined by one mistake) is to apologize to the boy you mistreated and to behave like a lady in the future.

DEAR ABBY: Isn't a sign of jealousy or hate to send somebody a cactus plant?

RECEIVED ONE

DEAR RECEIVED: I prefer to believe that anyone who sends another a plant (of any species) does it in the spirit of good will. Your conscience could be needing you.

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor turned on her sprinkler full force in complete disregard of the open windows in my car, standing where it belonged in MY driveway. If I had not been lucky enough to see the water gushing into my car, within five minutes I could have bathed in there. Should I take her to court, move, or ask her to move? I have lived here for 22 years and never had any trouble with my neighbors.

ANNNOYED

DEAR ANNOYED: If this one incident is the sum total of your complaint against your neighbor, I would say that you are over-reacting to what was probably an innocent accident. Talk to her.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to be married in August. My fiancé wants his brother to be best man. I want my brother to be best man. I know the groom usually selects the best man but, Abby, my fiancé's

ON ETIQUETTE

"Master" or "Mister": May one address an envelope to a teen-age boy as "Master Thomas Williams"? When does he officially become known as "Mr."?

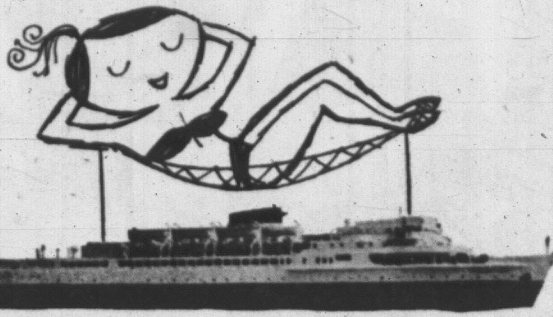

Louise Davis Answers: I'm sure that no teen-age boy would relish "Master" on an envelope addressed to him. He probably would puff with a grown-up pride should one write "Mr. Thomas Williams." Therefore, one could get away with it even if it does seem a little previous, but, in this day, and age, why not write just "Thomas Williams"? He becomes known as "Mr." when he is mature enough to be thought of as a grown-up man.

Who Pays For Lunch? When a woman friend tele-

Louise Davis Answers: When you are invited to lunch by a friend, it is assumed that you are guest and she the hostess. Therefore, she takes the check and leaves the tip.

Mrs. H. F. Ballantyne, centre, secretary of board of governors of the Caroline Macklem Home, with Miss B. Lucas, left, and Mrs. F. ## Bennett Using Hitler Tactic, Says Perrault Premier Bennett's Aug. 1 bond-burning ceremony at Kelowna is a dangerous attempt to delude the people—comparable to the policies of Adolf Hitler, Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said here Monday.

In an interview he recalled the Hitler quotation: "In order to delude the masses, it is necessary to tell the most outrageous lies."

TONGUE IN CHEEK

Mr. Perrault said he visited Kelowna and found the people there "have their tongues in their cheeks."

They say the Kelowna celebrations will cost $20,000 and it is now planned to have 11 bands and outriders who will escort the armored car which will carry the cancelled bonds to the bonfire.

It will float on the lake while street dancing and fireworks displays are carried out. The premier said the cost will not be borne by the government.

Mr. Perrault said he thought the money was to be put up either by local merchants or the Social Credit party.

A Victoria heating equipment firm sued an Esquimalt couple for $270 and costs in a dispute over a furnace and storage tank in County Court Monday.

heating unit and accessory equipment.

The couple in a counterclaim is seeking damages for breach of contract.

They say "noxious fumes" from the unit caused $150 re-decoration to be carried out to their sitting room and hall, and they cite "extreme discomfort" following installation of the equipment.

They alleged the unit was installed in a "negligent manner."

Another Saanich Shop Centre

Plans for development of a new $500,000 shopping centre on Douglas Street in Saanich were disclosed at a council meeting Monday.

Application was made by Archibald and Percy Riddle for commercial zoning of their property situated north of the CNR track to permit Kelly Douglas to establish an integrated shopping centre on the site.

The five-acre property, bounded by Douglas, University and Seymour, is situated near the Douglas Street No. 1 Fire Hall and municipal works yard.

The application, together with the plans for the shopping centre, was referred by council to the Saanich town planning commission for consideration.

Approval of the shopping centre would result in the development of one of the most highly concentrated shopping areas in Saanich.

To the south of the proposed Kelly Douglas project, Dominion Construction Co. is considering building a $2,500,000 shopping centre on the site of the Saanich municipal yard.

$85,000 Council has offered the property to the company for $85,000.

John Walsh, solicitor for the property owners, said the Kelly

Douglas centre would include a department store, a supermarket, a bank and other shops.

Work on the project would start as soon as the shopping centre plans were approved by council, he said.

"Can the company guarantee that these stores will be established on the site?" asked Reeve George Chatterton.

Mr. Walsh said he was certain the company would be able to make such a guarantee.

Market Boosters May Go to Court

The recently-formed Society for Preservation of the Public Market is considering legal action to maintain the present structure.

City council Thursday is expected to go ahead with a demolition order and proceed to build a parking lot.

John Peddle, market stallholder for 40 years, said the building was constructed through a $50,000 bylaw put to ratepayers, and he questioned whether it could legally be torn down without similar approval.

Borrowing Slowup Urged on Saanich

Saanich council Monday was urged to restrain from borrowing money for local improvements of non-essential projects because of the unsatisfactory money market.

Comptroller-treasurer John Tribe said municipalities are having difficulty in selling their bonds for local improvements on the open market.

SLOW SALES There is no big demand for the bonds, he explained, and sales are slow.

Bond purchasers are demanding high interest rates—between 6 and 6½ per cent, he said.

"Market conditions have never been worse in the past 30 years," he said.

"In view of the present unsatisfactory market conditions, I would suggest council curtail local improvements of non-essential work, such as curbs, paving and sidewalks," he said.

NO GUARANTEE

The main trouble, he said, is selling debentures for local improvements which were not guaranteed by the government. Councilors decided to discuss the matter more fully at a finance committee meeting.

FAST-PACED, COLORFUL

Young City Dancers In Sparkling Review

By MARIE MILBURN

The art of the dance from the elegant control of classical ballet to the tricky and agile movements of acrobatics were demonstrated with skill and artistry by members of the Wynne Shaw School of Dancing in the revue "Our Stars of Tomorrow." Monday night, in the Royal Theatre.

Quick-paced, colorful and varied at all times, the program showed children at all stages of training and development in gracefulness, sense of rhythm and co-ordination.

AT HOME

Members of the senior school, several already on their way to becoming professional dancers, proved at home in all facets of the art: folk, classical, tap, modern and comedy.

As loose-limbed scarecrows, many showed a keen comic sense.

Outstanding was their performance of "Meditation," done to the music of Bach. It was in a starkly simple and controlled style of the Martha Graham tradition of modern interpretive dance.

Finished solo performances in classical ballet were given by Anna-Marie Ellerbeck, Julie Banfield, Lydia Watt and other senior members. Junior, Barbara Ann Court, showed great promise.

Planists George Essihos and Mrs. D. Miller provided music. Stage managers were Dolly

Jones and R. Bullock. The affair was sponsored by the Women's Committee of the Victoria Symphony Society.

THEY DON'T TRUST THEM

Saanich council Monday rejected a night sprinkling by-law which would have permitted growers to use two-inch mains to irrigate their crops between the hours of 10 p.m. and 7 a.m.

Growers are now using one-inch or ¾-inch mains. But council feared that growers would take advantage of the by-law and use the larger mains during the daytime when the water pressure was low.

'Sunshine Satellite' Burned Up

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A weather-probing "sunshine satellite" apparently burned up in the earth's atmosphere Monday when the second stage of the Vanguard launching vehicle failed to function properly.

It was the eighth failure in 10 tries for the trouble-plagued Vanguard satellite program. One Vanguard rocket remains to be fired. If successful, the satellite would have measured the heat balance between the earth and the sun—that is, the amount of heat from the sun that reaches the earth, and the amount the earth gives back. Such information could result in improved weather forecasting and might help man in his quest to actually control weather.

NAVY'S PRIDE BOARDED BY SOUVENIR HUNTERS

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police had to be called to protect a warship.
The cruiser, Ontario, $4,500,000 vessel that was once the pride of the Canadian Navy, has been attacked by souvenir hunters to such an extent that the new owners have asked for police action.
The cruiser, reported sold for less than $500,000, is here to be dismantled. One group of determined hunters pried an 80-pound brass nameplate from the bulkhead of the ship.

JUST TAKING IT EASY

32 Feared Dead as Fire Destroys Tourist Hotel

VOSSESTRAND, Norway (UPI)—Fire destroyed the packed Stalheim tourist hotel today and was reported to have killed many of the 130 American tourists visiting there.

Police feared the death toll would exceed 32 and that most of the victims would be Americans. They said they had recovered seven bodies and that more than 25 other persons were and feared dead.

There were 147 guests and about 50 Norwegian employees in the 50-year-old four-story wooden hotel when fire flashed through the building at 3 a.m. and trapped many persons in their rooms.

At least 35 persons were taken to hospitals, many of them between the ages of 50 and 60 who had come to this resort area 50 miles northeast of Bergen to view the country's famous fjords.

Dangerous Search Among Ruins

Police hoped that some of the missing had left the hotel grounds and had merely failed to report their absence. But they could not be sure until they searched the remains of the tourist inn that was built here at the turn of the century.

The search for more victims was extremely difficult and dangerous in the still-smouldering ruins.

Rioting Mental Patients Besieged

(From Dispatches)
SPRINGFIELD, Mo.—Rioting prisoners at the federal prison system's medical centre released five hostages this afternoon, and guards immediately laid siege to a wing of the big prison hospital.

Russ Seamen Desert Ship

OTTAWA (UPI)—An immigration department official said today two Russian seamen were being held in St. John's, Nfld., and that a board of inquiry will probably study their case within 24 hours. # 22 CBC Officials Quit Over Political Pressure

LOGGERS, FISHERMEN, NEXT?

Labor Crisis Nears in B.C., Steelmen Out

Dark clouds gathered on the B.C. labor horizon today as three separate groups of workers geared for a showdown with employers.

The developments, in capsule, were:

Some 150 high steel men went on strike at midnight; another 450 (including 35 in Victoria) may lay down their tools later.

Leaders of the province's 26,660 woodworkers claimed 95 per cent (more than 90 per cent in Victoria) have voted for strike action in an unofficial ballot.

Salmon fishermen along the coast talked of stopping work in August, while shore workers also prepared for a walk-out.

TRAVELLING TIME

The steel workers, the men who swing girders into position high on construction sites, chose to strike in a dispute over travelling time.

They also contest the employers' right to import labor from other provinces, notably Alberta.

Their action halted work on the $23,000,000 Second Narrows bridge in Vancouver, while pickets were posted at the B.C. Electric's Bridge River hydro job, the Peace River Bridge in northwestern B.C., as well as various stores and buildings throughout the province.

A mine at Saturnia Island similarly faces complete shutdown for the duration of the strike and some small projects in Greater Victoria also may be affected.

HOSPITAL FREE

However, union spokesmen say pickets will not be posted at the new North Vancouver General Hospital, where men injured when the Second Narrows Bridge collapsed last July were taken.

The woodworkers are taking a union strike vote to support their demand for a 20 per cent wage increase, but they have indicated they will take 15 per cent (26 cents an hour more on the average wage).

Quebec Hails 'Sunshine Queen'

QUEBEC (CP)—This was French-Canada's day to give the Queen a sunny and happy welcome.

And from the time she left the Britannia in the beautiful backdrop of Wolfe's Cove where a French, regimental band gave a lively serenade of folk songs, to the city hall where she discussed bringing up families with Mayor Wilfrid Hamel, father of nine and grandfather of 13, there was little doubt the welcome was both warm and friendly.

The warm weather brought the comment from one cabinet minister: "Elle est la Reine du soleil" she is the sunshine Queen.

The biggest crowd of people gathered in front of the grey-stone city hall, and after the Members of Parliament should know that it's okay to try to make the news, but not to try to make the CBC news. Looks like B.C.'ll hev three strikes on it. Them William Head fellers must've figured th' fishin' is better on th' mainland.

2 Escapees Hiding Out On Island?

(See Also Page 13)

The RCMP, working around the clock in the hunt for four escapees from William Head "open" penitentiary, now believe the fugitives split up shortly after their escape early Sunday.

There is a strong possibility only two of them fled to the mainland in a water taxi stolen at Chemainus.

This belief was strengthened when a cleaning establishment was broken into at Mission, on the Fraser River, and only two pair of pants stolen. Two jackets were stolen from a garage.

TWO ON V.I.?

It's possible two of the escapees are still on Vancouver Island.

The Mounties are maintaining strict lookout all over the Island.

Police are going all-out in an attempt to find the water taxi, but Inspector G. A. Gerrie, in charge of the manhunt from this end, said there's a possibility the boat may never be found.

"They could sink it," he said.

The U.S. coast guard and Washington State police are assisting the RCMP.

PRAIRIE-BORN

The escapees were born on the prairies, two in Saskatchewan and two in Alberta, and police have not discounted the possibility they may be heading for their native homes.

Charles Puff, 21, is the only city-born member of the fugitives. He was born in Edmonton. Alvin Boehm, 23 was born in Kelster, Sask.; Ramond Sioz, 19, in another tiny Saskatchewan community while Peter Schneider, 22 is a native of Grand Prairie, Alta.

All the four are single men, but are believed to have relatives in their native towns.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

O Lord Jesus Christ, we remember Thy promise that whatever is done unto the least of Thy brethren is done unto Thee. Grant us grace to lend the helping hand in need, the uplifting voice in despair. Help us to bring a ray of comfort into the darkness of sorrow, a word of good cheer to some troubled heart in Thy name. Amen.

'MILLIONS FOR QUEEN, WHAT FOR FISHERMEN?'

(See Also Page 5)

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—"If the government can afford to spend a couple of million dollars on the visit of the Queen, they can spend some money on the stricken fishermen families of the Escumac district of New Brunswick," boxer Yvon Durelle said Monday night.

"Catches have been poor all year," Durelle said in an interview, "and I'm $6,000 behind last year myself. Most of the fishermen from the stricken area have had a poor year up to now—it will take five years for us to catch up on the loss."

Liberal Bid For Commons Debate Denied

TORONTO (CP)—Twenty-two top CBC executives, announced today they have resigned in protest against "unprecedented surrender to political pressure" by the corporation.

Shortly afterwards in Ottawa, Liberal Leader Lester Pearson moved that the House of Commons go into a special debate on charges of "clandestine political influence" resulting in the resignations. Commons Speaker Roland Michener ruled the Liberal motion out of order.

The CBC men said in a group statement that the CBC's decision to cancel the radio opinion program 'Preview Commentary' from Ottawa had "bartered away the integrity of national broadcasting in Canada."

The statement added that more resignations were expected here later today. All those involved work in the CBC's department of talks and public affairs.

That department's three-member staff at Montreal and two members at Ottawa were also reported to have quit their jobs because of the program cancellation, announced at Ottawa last week.

Battle for Inquiry in House

In the Commons, Mr. Pearson's motion immediately touched off a procedural fight. The Speaker said he wondered whether the matter was one under the administrative responsibility of the government.

Mr. Pearson said the issue was a matter of responsibility to Parliament on the part of the publicly-owned CBC.

"Surely this House is entitled to inquire into such affairs," he said.

He said that to him the important matter seemed to be that a charge had been made by senior CBC officials of "clandestine political influence" being brought to bear,

'All Programs Are in Jeopardy'

"Because of this unprecedented surrender to political pressure, the independence of all programs produced by this department is in jeopardy. We therefore can no longer do our jobs."

Ernest Bushnell, acting CBC president, issued a statement in which he rejected the inference that the program had been dropped because of political pressure.

Mr. Bushnell made his statement after a closed business meeting with nine other members of the CBC's 11-member board of directors.

The five-minute program Preview Commentary followed the 8 a.m. radio news and was

Top Brass To Discuss Royal Critic

TORONTO (UPI)—The case of Joyce Davidson, the TV interviewer who "went on leave" after she criticized the royal tour, will be discussed at a meeting of top brass of the CBC here Wednesday.

Acting CBC president E. L. Bushnell said Miss Davidson's case will "undoubtedly be discussed" when the CBC board of directors meet.

"We will probably consult our provincial representatives about the matter," he said.

Meanwhile, Loyal Brown, director of information services for the English network of the CBC, said today there was no doubt Miss Davidson will be back as an interviewer on the nightly "Tabloid" show.

Brown said calls to the CBC were predominantly for Miss Davidson's right to speak.

Tailored-to-Task Appearance Forecast For Home Cooking Appliances for 1969

A U.S. gas expert peeked into the future today and predicted that in 10 years residential cooking appliances and services will have undergone a whole new "tailored-to-the-task" look.

T. L. Robey, director of research for the American Gas Association, told 500 delegates to the 52nd annual meeting of the Canadian Gas Association in Empress Hotel that in the future the majority of cooking equipment will be built-in, "either as modules or as composite parts of a multimatic wall."

Other predictions:

"Many top burners will be of the concealed or fold-away types."

"Thawing and heating of frozen baked foods will be done by forced convection which will also enable baking or roasting in half the time now required."

"We shall have more radiant type broilers, rotisseries and ovens for speedy, succulent cooking, again in half the usual time or less."

"Furnaces and boilers as we know them today will still be with us but the trend in new equipment will include in one small package both heating and cooking with the more advanced models controlling humidity as well."

"Clothes dryers will have automatic lint eliminators."

"Pipeline construction and operation will be safer and through automation, pipelines will be more efficient; underground storage and delivery will be more economical."

Delegates were told by F. J. Pfluke, Rochester Gas and Electric Corporation, that "major advances have been made in all phases of natural gas distribution safety."

Hammering at natural gas critics as "short-sighted," Mr. Pfluke said all forms of energy can be dangerous if not properly controlled and handled—"it makes no difference if it is electricity, gas, oil, coal, wood or lighted cigarettes."

Researchers have developed a plastic pipe to the point where it will have "the necessary strength and be corrosion proof without having to resort to cathodic protection and wrapping."

A new sonic method of detecting leaks instantly is also being perfected, he said.

Delegates took time off from business sessions this afternoon to participate in the CGA annual golf tournament at Victoria Golf Club and to tour Butchart Gardens.

Business sessions resume Wednesday morning. Key speakers are A. C. Ashforth, president, Canadian Chamber of Commerce and The Toronto-Dominion Bank, and Dr. John Davis, research director, B.C. Electric.

Station Robbed Of Tools

Car Also Stolen In Saanich Case

Hand and power-operated mechanics' tools valued at nearly $2,000 and a 1958 station wagon were stolen in a burglary of Parkdale Service Station, 3415 Douglas, in Saanich, overnight Monday.

Rolls of coins left in an open safe were untouched. Apparently to help carry the heavy tools away, the thieves took the station wagon, which had been left locked outside the service station. They found its key in the office, an employee said.

The employee said the shop was literally cleaned out. Heavy tools owned by the station included impact wrenches and an acetylene welding rig.

ALL INSURED
A value of about $1,500 was placed on these, and other tools belonging to a mechanic were valued at $400. All tools were insured.

Entry to the station was gained by means of taking the putty from around glass of a north side window, then removing the pane, unobserved from Douglas Street or intersecting Saanich Road.

A 24-hour service station across Saanich Road noticed nothing unusual apart from slight activity around the robbed station about 3 a.m.

PORCHLIGHT BRIGADE NEEDS YOU

Call went out today for any clubs and organized groups willing to help canvass in tonight's $50,000 "porchlight" drive by Victoria Senior Citizens' Housing Society.

"We're still desperately short of canvassers," said society secretary Glen Hamilton. "We need at least 500."

"If we can't get individuals, then we must ask clubs and all similar organized groups to come forward."

Would-be canvassers should call headquarters office at EV 5-0811.

Areas particularly in need of volunteers willing to knock on doors and ask for money for the drive are Esquimalt, Uplands and James Bay.

The $50,000 will be used to equip the society's new 26-unit apartment block for old people at Styles and Craigflower, and to start another one.

'Tighten Up' Plea Follows Prison Break

Demand mounted today for stricter regulations at the William Head "open" penitentiary on the heels of a four-man escape Sunday.

Civic leaders agreed that if the prison isn't functioning properly, changes should be made.

Oak Bay Reeve George Murdoch said William Head may be the right type of prison but that obviously the wrong type of prisoner was being sent there.

A convicted child slayer escaped more than a month ago.

TIGHTEN UP
"They should tighten up their selection of inmates," Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtel said "if a prison is wide open you defeat the purpose of putting a man in prison."

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell, called for strengthening of security regulations.

"They are trying out a new idea to give the prisoners less restraint. Apparently it isn't working out."

Reeve George Chatterton, Saanich, said: "If inmates can't justify the trust placed in them, the jail should be removed."

TO MAINLAND
Mrs. M. Murray, long-time resident of the area, said the prison should be moved away entirely, "back on the mainland with the other prison."

"We are not happy with it here."

Charles G. Argall, who lives near the prison, said recent escapes bore out what a protest petition predicted when the establishment was first opened.

'Mr. X' Identified As Airlines Clerk

Royal Jubilee Hospital's amnesia patient still could not remember who he was today, although police say they have definitely identified him.

They gave his name as Robert George Stanley Jarvis, 21, of 3716 Pandrell Street, Vancouver, a ticket clerk in the head office of Trans-Canada Airlines.

A TCA employee was due here later today from Vancouver to talk to Jarvis in the observation ward at Royal

B.C. to Share Quadra Project

Province to Pay Half Of Street Rebuilding

Saanich Reeve George Chatterton Monday disclosed the provincial government has given him verbal assurance it will share the cost of reconstructing Quadra Street from Tolmie to the Patricia Bay Highway.

Total cost of reconstructing the 5½-mile stretch will be about $350,000.

The improved highway would alleviate the growing traffic congestion on the Patricia Bay Highway.

The government's decision was a victory for the reeve, who has held that Saanich should not have to bear the full cost of reconstructing the street.

Work will start as soon as official approval is received.

HANDED BACK
The street formerly was a provincial arterial highway but it was handed back to the municipality when the government constructed the Patricia Bay Highway.

It was badly in need of repairs when it was turned over to Saanich.

The reeve said traffic on Quadra would increase when the new ferry service starts between Sidney and the mainland.

UNBEARABLE
"Under present conditions, heavy traffic on Quadra would become unbearable," he said.

He said the government's decision to share the cost will permit Saanich to construct sidewalks on Quadra. But such a project would depend on council, he said.

A portion of the street was scheduled to be repaired this year under a council-initiated local improvement bylaw, but this has now been set aside in view of the new developments.

Art 'Plunder' Cry Debunked by Carl

Foreign collectors of native B.C. arts are doing this province a favor when they pick up rare items, Provincial Museum director Dr. Clifford Carl said today.

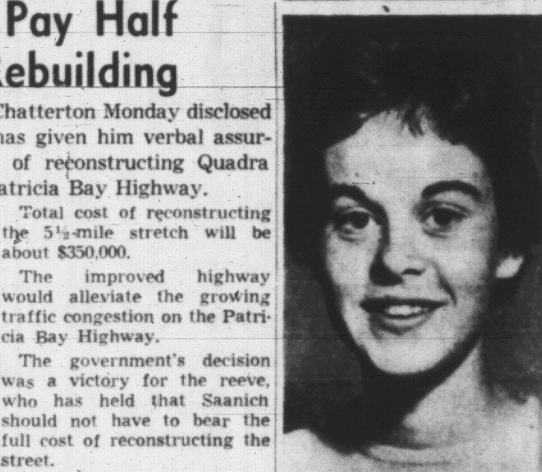

Commenting on a lead article in Maclean's Magazine this week, which claims the native art of Canada is being plundered, he said, "This is a hue and cry I don't subscribe to too strongly."

"These collectors have done us a service. What does it matter whether these items are displayed here or elsewhere? They still serve to create an interest in British Columbia and improve the general knowledge of the province."

SWEPT BARE
The magazine says foreign collectors have practically swept the country bare of irreplaceable native relics and pioneer art. "And the plunder still goes on almost unheeded and unchecked."

Dr. Carl says the museum has a basic collection of good quality items which would not be greatly enhanced by adding to the quantity.

50 PER CENT CUT
But he admitted it has been necessary to cut the budget for adding to the Museum's collection.

A Victoria girl and a Ladysmith boy will be among 23 B.C. students attending a Canada council-sponsored visit to Stratford, Ont., festival, July 22, 23 and 24, it was announced by the education department today.

They are Sandra McKeachie, Oak Bay High, and Barry Bourque, Ladysmith Junior-Senior High School. A Victoria teacher, Miss Christine McNab of S. J. Willis Junior High will be one of three teachers accompanying the tour.

The students were chosen for the all-expense-paid trip on a basis of proficiency in the arts.

John J. Pickford, 20, of 1601 Esquimalt Road, charged his passenger-laden car out of a drive-in, went the wrong way down a section of one-way street and reached a speed of 65 miles an hour in a 30 zone before police stopped him.

In city police court Monday, Pickford pleaded guilty to a charge of criminally negligent driving and was fined $75 and his driver's licence was suspended.

A half-dozen eggs, a safety razor, a jar of instant coffee and a radio totalling $30 value were stolen sometime Sunday from the home of Mrs. E. Nye, 952 Pandora.

She told city police a rear door had been left insecure.

A demonstration of grading, packing and candling of eggs will be given at the Keating's Farmers' Institute Hall at 8 p.m. Thursday.

An airplane which disappeared in the Cordova Bay area over the weekend has been floating upside down. It flew away from a Victoria Model Airplane Flying meet at Gordon Head, Dan Ockenden, 2436 Central, nearly ran over the model in his boat. Owner Bill Stubbings hopes to have his model in the air again for the next club meet July 19—complete with a new device which will force it to land after three minutes.

Victoria Camera Club meets Wednesday at Greater Victoria Art Gallery at 7.45 p.m. Slides of "Navajoh-land" will be shown. Visitors will be welcomed.

Two teen-aged boys are in hospital today recovering from injuries received in falls Monday evening.

Lyle Campbell, 16, of 4090 Gordon Head, is "satisfactory" with mild concussion, the result of being thrown from a horse behind 4417 Tyndall at 5.30 p.m.

At 8.30 p.m. Robert Peden, 13, of 2845 Rockwell, was taken to Jubilee with a broken wrist and shock after he fell from a tree in Gorge Park while at play.

Two business men were fined a total of $70 in city police court today when they pleaded guilty to charges of failing to file returns for social security tax.

V. C. Walters, 3320 Shelbourne, paid $10 each on charges covering the months December-April inclusive plus $2.50 costs.

Frank Emery Schroeder, 581 Niagara, was fined $10 on charges covering March and April.

Ralph Smele, 1141 Caledonia, was fined $50 in city police court today when he was found guilty of assault causing bodily harm to a neighbor trying to get his dog from Smele's house June 8.

John Turick, 1159 Caledonia, said Smele hit him with a ring or bottle, causing a large cut over one eye which needed 11 stitches to close.

Turick had gone into Smele's house after his dog when Smele whistled the dog away from its owner, court was told.

Fear 32 Dead
In Hotel Blaze

VOSSESTRAND, Norway (UPI)—Fire destroyed the packed Stalheim tourist hotel today and was reported to have killed many of the 130 American tourists visiting there.

Police feared the death toll would exceed 32 and that most of the victims would be Americans. They said they had recovered seven bodies and that more than 25 other persons were and feared dead.

There were 147 guests and about 50 Norwegian employees in the 50-year-old four-story wooden hotel when fire flashed through the building at 3 a.m. and trapped many persons in their rooms.

At least 35 persons were taken to hospitals, many of them between the ages of 50 and 60 who had come to this resort area 50 miles northeast of Bergen to view the country's famous fjords.

Dangerous Search Among Ruins

Police hoped that some of the missing had left the hotel grounds and had merely failed to report their absence. But they could not be sure until they searched the remains of the tourist inn that was built here at the turn of the century.

The search for more victims was extremely difficult and dangerous in the still smouldering ruins.

115 Guards Crush
Rioting Patients

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP)—Guards operating in four groups with almost military precision battered their way inside a barricaded wing of the United States medical center Tuesday, releasing five guards held hostage and subduing a riot of 106 mentally unstable prisoners.

Prison authorities announced by late afternoon that all of the prisoners were in custody and the hostages safe, although two of the captive guards had suffered severe lacerations.

Police radios reported that some of the rioters resisted briefly and several of the prisoners were injured. At least one member of the attack force of 115 guards was hurt, held within known as "10 north." The break-in on the prisoner was accomplished with the use of tear gas, cutting torches and a bulldozer.

U.K. Atom Spy
Rushed by Air
To E. Berlin

LONDON (AP)—Atom spy Klaus Fuchs boarded a Polish airliner today for a non-stop flight to East Berlin.

East German spokesmen said Fuchs would be admitted to that country. Presumably he will go to live with his 84-year-old father, Prof. Emil Fuchs, at Leipzig.

The 47-year-old Fuchs was brought in a police-escorted car from Wakefield Prison, 180 miles northeast of London, where he had served nine years and three months of a 14-year sentence for giving British and American atomic secrets to Russia. He was given credit for good conduct while in prison.

HEAVILY GUARDED
Scotland Yard men and airport police ringed the Polish airliner, and the entire departure area as Fuchs went aboard.

The government had said that the German-born physicist was free to go anywhere after his release.

Lemass Irish Premier

DUBLIN (Reuters)—Sean Lemass tonight was elected prime minister of the Irish Republic by a vote of 75 to 71 in the Dail (parliament).

Dark clouds gathered on the B.C. labor horizon today as three separate groups of workers geared for a showdown with employers.

The developments, in capsule, were:
Some 150 high steel men went on strike at midnight; another 450 (including 35 in Victoria) may lay down their tools later.

Leaders of the province's 26,660 woodworkers claimed 95 per cent (more than 90 per cent in Victoria) have voted for strike action in an unofficial ballot.

Salmon fishermen along the coast talked of stopping work in August, while shore workers also prepared for a walk-out.

TRAVELLING TIME

The steel workers, the men who swing girders into position high on construction sites, chose to strike in a dispute over travelling time.

They also contest the employers' right to import labor from other provinces, notably Alberta.

Their action halted work on the $23,000,000 Second Narrows bridge in Vancouver, while pickets were posted at the B.C. Electric's Bridge River hydro job, the Peace River Bridge in northwestern B.C., as well as various stores and buildings throughout the province.

A mine at Saturna Island similarly faces complete shutdown for the duration of the strike and some small projects in Greater Victoria also may be affected.

HOSPITAL FREE

However, union spokesmen say pickets will not be posted at the new North Vancouver General Hospital, where men injured when the Second Narrows Bridge collapsed last July were taken.

The woodworkers are taking a union strike vote to support their demand for a 20 per cent wage increase, but they have indicated they will take 15 per cent (26 cents an hour more on the average wage).

Joe Morris, regional president of the International Woodworkers of America, Monday claimed 95 per cent of the membership had shown

2 Escapees
Hiding Out
On Island?

(See Also Page 13)

The RCMP, working around the clock in the hunt for four escapees from William Head "open" penitentiary, now believe the fugitives split up shortly after their escape early Sunday.

There is a strong possibility only two of them fled to the mainland in a water taxi stolen at Chemainus.

This belief was strengthened when a cleaning establishment was broken into at Mission, on the Fraser River, and only two pair of pants stolen. Two jackets were stolen from a garage.

TWO ON V.I.?

It's possible two of the escapees are still on Vancouver Island.

The Mounties are maintaining strict lookout all over the Island.

Police are going all-out in an attempt to find the water taxi, but Inspector G. A. Gerrie, in charge of the manhunt from this end, said there's a possibility the boat may never be found.

"They could sink it," he said.

The U.S. coast guard and Washington State police are assisting the RCMP.

The escapees were born on the prairies, two in Saskatchewan and two in Alberta, and police have not discounted the possibility they may be heading for their native homes.

Charles Puff, 21, is the only city-born member of the fugitives. He was born in Edmonton. Alvin Boehm, 23, was born in Kelowna, B.C.; Ramond Stolz, 19, in another tiny Saskatchewan community while Peter Schneider, 22, is a native of Grand Prairie, Alta.

All the four are single men, but are believed to have relatives in their native towns.

The truck in which the four made their getaway was found near Chemainus Monday while

Program Killed
For Political Reasons—Charge

TORONTO (CP)—Twenty-two top CBC employees in Toronto, including four senior executives, announced today they have resigned in protest against "unprecedented surrender to political pressure" by the corporation.

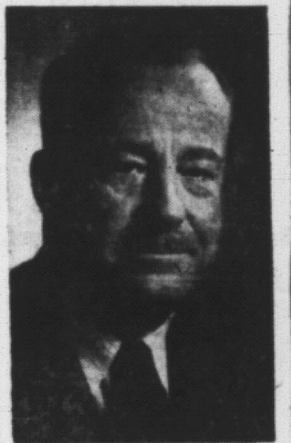

Shortly afterwards in Ottawa, Liberal Leader Lester Pearson moved that the House of Commons go into a special debate on charges of "clandestine political influence" resulting in the resignations. Commons Speaker Roland Michener ruled the Liberal motion out of order.

The CBC men said in a group statement that the CBC's decision to cancel the radio opinion program Preview Commentary from Ottawa had "bartered away the integrity of national broadcasting in Canada."

The statement added that more resignations were expected here later today. All those involved work in the CBC's department of talks and public affairs.

That department's three-member staff at Montreal and two members at Ottawa were also reported to have quit their jobs because of the program cancellation, announced at Ottawa last week.

In the Commons, Mr. Pearson's motion immediately touched off a procedural fight. The Speaker said he wondered whether the matter was one under the administrative responsibility of the government.

'All Programs Are in Jeopardy'

Mr. Pearson said the issue was a matter of responsibility to Parliament on the part of the publicly-owned CBC.

"Surely this House is entitled to inquire into such affairs," he said.

He said that to him the important matter seemed to be that a charge had been made by senior CBC officials of "clandestine political influence" being brought to bear, affecting the way they could carry out their duties.

Gordon Cullingham, a CBC program organizer and spokesman for the group which resigned, issued a statement at his home where the 22 met. It said:

"By removing Preview Commentary from the air under political pressure the CBC management, with the concurrence of the board of directors, has bartered away the integrity of national broadcasting in Canada.

"As members of this department... our responsibility has been the presentation of programs on radio and television dealing with varieties of opinion, often political.

"Because of this unprecedented surrender to political pressure, the independence of all programs produced by this department is in jeopardy. We therefore can no longer do our jobs."

Ernest Bushnell, acting CBC president, issued a statement in which he rejected the inference that the program had been

Top Brass
To Discuss
Royal Critic

TORONTO (UPI)—The case of Joyce Davidson, the TV interviewer who "went on leave" after she criticized the royal tour, will be discussed at a meeting of top brass of the CBC here Wednesday.

Acting CBC president E. L. Bushnell said Miss Davidson's case will "undoubtedly be discussed" when the CBC board of directors meet.

"We will probably consult our provincial representatives about the matter," he said.

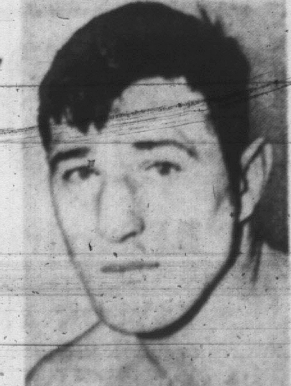

Meanwhile, Lyla Brown, director of information services for the English network of the CBC, said today there was no doubt Miss Davidson will be back as an interviewer on the nightly "Tabloid" show. Brown said calls to the CBC were predominantly for Miss Davidson's right to speak.

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—"If the government can afford to spend a couple of million dollars on the visit of the Queen, they can spend some money on the stricken fishermen families of the Escuminac district of New Brunswick," boxer Yvon Durelle said Monday night.

"Catches have been poor all year," Durelle said in an interview, "and I'm $6,000 behind last year myself. Most of the fishermen from the stricken area have had a poor year up to now—it will take five years for us to catch up on the loss."

dropped because of political pressure.

Mr. Bushnell made his statement after a closed business meeting with nine other members of the CBC's 11-member board of directors.

The five-minute program Preview Commentary followed the 8 a.m. radio news and was done mainly by newspaper men who gave opinions on the news, mostly on parliamentary developments.

Among the officials involved:

David Walker, national organizer of commentary programs; Frank Peers, supervisor of talks and public affairs; D. Hugh Gillis, his assistant; and Bernard Trotter, supervising producer of television public affairs.

Others who have announced resignations include Del MacKenzie, producer of radio talks and public affairs; program organizers Eric Koch, Reeves Hagan, Arthur Stinson, Lewis Miller, Robert Weaver, Miss Dorothea Cox, Miss Catherine McIver, Mrs. Joan Lorraine, Miss Helen Carscadden, and Miss Margaret Fielder; program research assistant Miss Mary Pemberton and producers Robert McCormick, James Murray, Miss Christina McDougall, Mrs. Ann Robson and Mrs. Colleen Noordhoff.

Mr. Bushnell said Preview Commentary was replaced in a move to improve the CBC's coverage of Parliamentary news. The new program in that morning spot consists of a straight report on parliamentary news items prepared by the CBC news department.

Ross McLean, producer of Closeup, said Mr. Peers, Mr. Gillis and Mr. Trotter were "three of the ablest program administrators the corporation has."

"They are three men who could more than match the size of their jobs. They are calm, responsible, high-principled men with a strong sense of what the CBC should be doing and how they could help to do it."

It will be a big day Saturday for young people with a bent for agricultural pursuits ranging from the raising of dairy cattle to the growing of vegetables.

More than 200 members of Vancouver Island 4-H Clubs whose motto is "Serve God and Honor the Queen," will meet at the Saanichton Agricultural fair grounds for their annual field day.

They will take part in judging competitions for Jersey, Holstein and beef cattle, goats, rabbits and sewing articles.

The program will start at 8 a.m. and end at 5 p.m.

The field day is sponsored by the Malahat South 4-H Council which supervises club activities for south Vancouver Island.

Ken Jameson, B.C. district agriculturist at Duncan, will be in charge.

The competitions are designed to teach young people how to judge, select and grade the best of agricultural commodities.

But the main objective in the farm youth training program is much wider in scope. It aims to teach 4-H members the art of making selections and to develop their powers of observation and concentration.

"Our program is educational and our tools are farm commodities," explained Mrs. Echo Lidster, B.C. 4-H Club supervisor. "Our objective is to make good citizens and to provide them with a training which will be useful in later life."

DAIRY SPECIALISTS

4-H Council officials expect a large group of boys and girls from Duncan and the Cowichan Valley for the field day. The members there specialize in dairy cattle.

Victoria members will include representatives of dairy, goat, rabbit, vegetable and sewing clubs.

Clubs from Chemainus and the surrounding district of Nanaimo will be represented at the meet.

HIGH HOPES FOR LARGE YIELD

Duncan Teacher Testing African, Asian Grains

DUNCAN (CP) — Wheat seven feet high, fields of rice and other crops native to Africa and Asia will be grown in this district if experiments by George Prudhomme are successful.

Mr. Prudhomme, a fellow of the Nigerian Field Society and of the Zoological Society of London, has had a wealth of experience in such places as West Africa, Kurdistan and Burma.

A teacher at the Indian school at Chemainus Bay, he spends his spare time growing such strange crops as giant Egyptian wheat, a millet from the Far East known as hagari, and fields of rice.

He also has thick, lush blue lupins, noted for a high protein content, kale that towers above the average man, Spanish peanuts and other plants.

Mr. Prudhomme says he considers this part of Vancouver Island has the ideal climate for most of these plants.

"True, it does not have tropical temperatures or particularly heavy rainfall, but it is sufficient of both for the crops to be grown without difficulty."

"If one can find a species of plant which grows under similar conditions in its native environment, there is no reason why it should not be grown here."

"All my seeds are germinating at the moment and I have high hopes that the yield will be excellent."

"The Egyptian wheat should reach a height of seven feet within 100 days and should grow just about anywhere. Its big advantage is that it can be grown for both grain and silage. It has extremely high food value and is closely related to sugar cane, containing a good deal of molasses potential."

"In poorer countries the grain is used for making bread but here its greatest use would probably be as food for pigs, cattle or horses."

The hagari, native to India and Asia, will withstand drought and, he said, has become popular in the United States because of its tremendous yield.

"When they think of rice," he said, "many people imagine whole stretches of land submerged in water. But that is necessary only for the water or swamp-rice. Pearl rice and the hill rice could be grown here."

Mr. Prudhomme said he expects to raise six tons of hill rice per acre.
